The Marion Community Foundation's campaign to raise funds to finance six local and two national character building and service organizations through the coming year failed to reach the hoped for goal of $67,190 when reports were turned in at what was set as the second and final report meeting last night. There is still something like $15,000 to be accounted for before the 100 per cent mark is chalked up on the big blackboard in the Masonic temple where report meetings are being held.

A note of encouragement was rounded in the reports when figures showed that one division had topped its quota and another was so close that the workers were practically assured of reaching their goal before the deadline.

Workers Stay On Job

If the figures were disappointing it didn't show in the spirit and enthusiasm of the 50 or more men and women who have been on the job since Monday Oct. 21, contacting prospective contributors some of whom backed up their faith in Marion and the foundation with cash and pledges. Also, if they felt a bit let down, the setback failed to lesson their determination to keep on trying and that is just what they are going to do.

Holding to the belief that the money is to be had and that the community does no want to see its welfare and character building agencies let down, they took a second breath, tightened their collective belt and agreed to fight to a finish. After all, they point out, the campaign isn't scheduled to end until tonight.

And in the meantime the local agencies, the Y. M. C. A., Boy Scouts, Girl Scous, Salvation Army and Girl Reserves, are carrying on, the King's Daughters stand ready to take over the work of handling the hospital fund and the USO and United Seamen's service are counting on Marion's contribution to help carry on the work of serving the men in the armed forces. All of them, the records show, have not only done a good job but now have more work on their hands than in normal times. They are able to work, it was emphasized last night, because the community has taken over the job of providing the finances for them to serve the people of Marion and Marion county with the services they need.

Some Reports Incomplete

Reports last night were, for the most part incomplete the workers stated, and several divisions will reach their quotas within a few days the figures indicated. To the commercial division headed by J. W. Torrance and Harold Nussbaum goes the honor of being the first and to date, the only division to report topping its quota. With a goal of $11,000 the workers reported contributions in the amount of $12,096. The smaller industries, headed by Charles Harmon, with a quota of $5,680 reported contributions amounting to $5,580.91. With contributions from contributors to be contacted today, this division will be in the clear by tonight, Mr. Harmon predicts.

The following reports were given: large industries, reported $6,688.61, total $15,569.97; small industries, $4,980.91, total $5,580.91; utilities and transportation, $3,165, total $6,244.50; national stores, $2,184, total $2,504; commercial, $4,512.50, total $12,096; government, $1,019.50, total $1,275.50; schools, $435.50, total $834.50; general, $3,600, total $6,519.50; county, $1,586.35, total $1,586.35.

Last night's total contributions amounted to $28,172.37, making a grand total to date of $52,211.23.

Mr. Cleveland Presides

E. L. Cleveland, head of the foundation, presided and in charge of the report meeting was J. J. Stafford, campaign chairman. The invocation was spoken by Rev. E. H. Wierth, pastor of the First Evangelcal and Reformed church. Dinner music was provided by Miss Virginia Grover, pianist and Hugh Hay led community singing.

Highlighting the musical entertainment was a group of vocal numbers by a girls' ensemble from Harding High school composed of Joyce Snyder, Nancy

FARMER INJURED IN ASSAULT DIES

Assailant of Rena A. Chandler Still Hunted.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31—The death of Rena A. Chandler, 52-year-old Delaware county farmer, spurred Franklin county authorities today in their search for assailants who on Oct. 19 slashed his head with a tire iron and dragged him into a field.

Chandler was found 100 yards off a road near the Olentangy river when his feeble signal for help attracted a passerby. He died here last night.

Deputy Sheriff Earl Heise said he discounted robbery as a motive in the beating because Chandler's billfold contained $20.

The farmer was seen leaving a restaurant north of Worthington with anothr man the night he was beaten, and police today continued their search for the man.

To Hold Prices Down, Shoe Industry Says

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—Tanning and shoe industry spokesmen today said they would make every effort to keep shoe prices from rising excessively as a resut of decontrol of hides, leather and shoes,

Merrill A. Watson, executive vice president of Tanners' Council of America said higher world market levels probably would affect domestic prices of hides and skins.

BUTTER PRICE DROPS

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Oct. 31—Following the trend of the Chicago market, the wholesale price of butter skidded five cents to 79 cents a pound here today. The retail price dropped to about 86 cents.

Milk Prices Go Up Friday

Standard Bottled Product To Increase One Cent to 19 Cents a Quart.

Milk prices in Marion will rise one cent per quart Friday, dairies announced today. Reason for the increase is higher prices paid to farmers in an effort to keep Marion's milk supply from going to other cities, the dairy statement said.

New prices will be 19 cents for a quart of standard milk, with corresponding increases for other products such as cream, premium milk and chocolate drink.

"We are raising the price very reluctantly," the dairymen said, "because we are interested in holding the line on dairy foods and because we sincerely want to avoid a higher cost of living.

"However, in this case it was a choice between one cent higher prices or not enough milk for the people of Marion. And we believe our consumers would rather pay slightly more than not have enough milk to meet their needs."

Farmers Get More

The dairymen said the selling price rise does not cover the increase in payments to farmers who supply the milk. Starting Nov. 1, he said, the farm price will have risen the equivalent of 1½ cents per quart over Oct. 1, and Friday's increase will only partially offset that rise.

"Competition from the markets surrounding Marion compels us to raise our price to farmers," he said. "If we did not do so, the farmers who send their milk to Marion would naturally send it to other markets where the price is higher, and nobody could blame them."

Strike Idleness During 1946 Already Exceeds 1945 Total

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—Strike idleness during the first nine months of 1946 exceeded by nearly three times the working time similarly lost in all of 1945, the previous record year.

Government figures which showed this today placed at 98,225,000 the number of man-days lost due to management-labor disputes during the January-through-September period.

For all of last year the total was 38,025,000. Earlier peaks were 28,425,000 in 1937; 26,219,000 in 1927 and 23,048,000 in 1941.

The bureau of labor statistics, which compiled the figures, said the number of strikes and lockouts for the first nine months of this year totaled 3,575, compared with 3,784 for all of 1945.

The reason for the big jump in man days lost, officials said, is that postwar strikes have been bitter and for keeps, hence extended for longer periods. During the war walkouts generally were small, spontaneous and quickly settled.

BLS didn't begin keeping its present type of strike statistics until 1927, so no comparison is possible between the postwar year 1946 and the postwar year 1919 on the basis of man days of work lost.

However, in 1919, BLS says there were 4,160,000 workers involved in strikes. The 1946 total [illegible] cause for the first nine months of 1946 the total involved was 3,805,000.

There is a difference of only 355,000 struck workers but there were 535,000 on strike for the single month of September, principally due to the maritime and New York trucking strikes, now largely settled.

The BLS statistics show how strikes became more severe immediately after the war ended. Three-fourths of all the 38,025,000 man-days idle in 1945 came in the months following V-J day.

Thereafter the long and widespread steel, auto, coal and electric workers' strikes began to pile up this year's big [illegible] total. February was the worst month with [illegible] man days lost.

JOHN L. LEWIS APPEARS TO BE BIG WINNER

Signs Point to Victory for Mine Chief as Parley Begins Tomorrow.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—John L. Lewis appeared certain today to emerge from his fight with the government a bigger winner than ever.

With Lewis still holding the whip hand—backed by the tacit but nonetheless real threat of another strike by his 400,000 soft coal miners—all signs point to eventual new government concessions in the negotiations scheduled to start tomorrow.

Whether a walkout will intervene remains to be seen, but here are the signposts that say the United Mine Workers' chief in the end will get at least part of what he wants.

1. Lewis apparently has won the first round—getting the government to talk higher wages with him.

The officials who are going to negotiate with him—Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug and Navy Capt. N. H. Collisson, federal coal mines administrator—still haven't agreed to reopen the present contract, but they say they are willing to discuss anything that is on Lewis' mind.

Others in the administration side with Lewis in his contention that the pact can be opened on 10 days' notice and ended in 30 days. Lewis started the ball rolling Oct. 21.

2. The government is anxious to avert a coal strike in November, with winter's chill approaching. And the administration is well aware of what would happen under the miners' historic no-contract no-work stand should Lewis cancel the agreement on schedule, Nov. 20.

Moreover, any move to invoke the jail penalties of the Smith-Connally war labor disputes act against Lewis in the event of a walkout might only prolong the controversy because of the unswerving manner in which the miners always have stood behind their chief.

3. Top administration advisers acknowledge that they are searching for a satisfactory pay concession for Lewis—yet one which would not upset the labor-management apple cart and set a pattern for other union demands.

In other words, Lewis has indicated clearly that a strike for higher pay may occur—even during government operation—and the government has just as clearly indicated it wants to avoid one. The answer seems certain, therefore, to be: pay concessions for the miners.

CHURCHILL HOPES UN WILL END WAR TALK

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 31—Winston Churchill declared today he hoped the United Nations would "sweep away" war talk by providing for an interchange of "actual military facts, supported by adequate reciprocal inspection."

Britain's wartime prime minister—called by Prime Minister Stalin an "instigator of a new war"—gave his reply in a speech accepting the freedom of the city of Birmingham. The honor was presented at his London home.

"We are told that one of the great evils from which we suffer is international suspicion," Churchill said. "There is a very good remedy for suspicion.

"It is the full disclosure of the facts, and that simple sovereign remedy, I hope, will be applied to the world situation by the United Nations organization now meeting in the United States, and what is called war talk swept away by an interchange of actual military facts supported by adequate reciprocal inspection on terms of honorable equality between all the powers, great and small, which are involved."

School Financial Problems Are General Throughout the State

This is one of a series of four articles on the critical situation existing in Marion's public schools because of the extremely low salaries paid teachers and emphasizing the imperative need of the two-mill special tax levy which is to be submitted to voters in the election Tuesday, Nov. 5.

* * *

Marion is not alone in seeking more funds with which to run its schools. Reports from public school districts throughout Ohio show that hundreds of communities are asking for additional levies Nov. 5, indicating an overall problem of securing adequate funds with which to maintain school standards.

A total of 603 school districts in Ohio will vote on extra levies in the November election. They are divided as follows: 477 local districts in county systems; 49 exempted villages (independent school districts of over 3,000 population); and 77 cities with population of 5,000 and over.

There are 86 exempted village and 113 city school systems in Ohio. This means that 56.9 per cent of the exempted villages and 68.1 per cent of the cities are presenting additional school levy proposals next Tuesday.

Marion City schools seek a two-mill levy, running for a four-year period, which would yield approximately $82,000 a year. About 80 per cent of the money raised would be used to increase teachers' salaries, with the remaining funds going to offset increased cost of textbooks, fuel, supplies, maintenance and other such expenditures.

In Other Communities

Among the exempted villages in the Marion area which are submitting school levies are Mt. Gilead, Carey and Marysville. Mt. Gilead is seeking a five-mill levy to run for five years, 1.5 mills renewal and 3.5 mills non-renewal. Carey is asking for a one-mill levy to run for three years and Marysville renewal of a three-mill levy to run for five years.

Some of the cities which are submitting additional school operating levies and the additional amounts requested are as follows: Delaware, two mills; Bucyrus, three mills; Galion, 1.5 mills; Findlay, two mills; Fostoria, two mills; Lancaster, three mills; Lima, two mills; Mansfield, three mills; Massillon, 3.5 mills; Mt. Vernon, 1.5 mills; Newark, two mills; and Piqua, two mills.

From One to Six Mills

The amount of additional levies asked by the 77 city school districts varies from one mill to six mills, the amount being requested by Cuyahoga Falls. Average additional amount of millage requested by the 77 city school districts is 2.65 mills.

Total amount sought by Ohio schools in bond issues is $44,804,801, compared to $25,850,900 in 1944. Ohio city schools alone are seeking $22,834,330 in the November elections. Counties, including the local school districts are asking for $17,318,471 and exempted villages for $4,652,000, according to reports from the college of education at Ohio State university.

Kenton city schools will be among the 11 in the state asking for passage of school bond issues in November. The Kenton bond issue is for $80,000 for remodeling the elementary school building and constructing a gymnasium. Other cities asking for passage of school bond issues are Bedford, Canton, Fremont, Hamilton, Miamisburg, Norwalk, Salem, Shaker Heights, Shelby and Wooster.

COTTON MART MAKES RALLY

Heavy Buying by Mills Sends Prices Up $10 Fluctuation Limit.

By The Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 31—Heavy mill buying, entering the cotton market in the middle of the morning here today, advanced prices on all futures the $10 limit of fluctuations for one day.

The buying was said to be for price fixing purposes by the mills.

The greatest advances were shown in the distant months of December and March, 1947.

The opening was marked by heavy trading.

* * *

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—Rep. Sparkman (D-Ala) predicted today that the government will try quickly—possibly by nightfall—to jam the brakes on tumbling cotton prices.

As major cotton exchanges made ready to resume trading after an emergency shutdown yesterday, Sparkman told a reporter he expects Stabilization Director John R. Steelman to wipe out a 120-day limitation on advance pricing by mills of finished cotton goods.

The cotton state lawmaker also said, after conferring with Steelman, that price controls on cotton textiles may be abolished. But he added:

"I won't consider decontrol as important as removal of the 120-day limitation."

Sparkman said Steelman plans to confer with President Truman today on the cotton situation.

"I feel certain there will be quick action," the Alabaman asserted. "It's likely to come today."

Cotton exchanges in New York, New Orleans and Chicago announced last night that they would reopen for business today. They halted trading suddenly and unexpectedly yesterday — for the third time in two weeks—in an effort to check the price skid that has sent the staple down as much as $50 a bale.

Sparkman quickly arranged a conference with Mr. Truman and later quoted the Chief Executive as saying it is "the purpose of the government to do everything possible to stabilize the cotton market."

He added that the President was mapping "plans for action."

REPLIES TO STALIN. Randolph Churchill, shown in Detroit, has challenged Stalin's statement that Churchill's father, Britain's war-time prime minister, was a menace to peace. They never like to have their aggressions made public."

MAJOR SENTENCED IN HESSE JEWEL THEFT

By The Associated Press

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 31—Maj. David F. Watson was sentenced to three years imprisonment and dismissal from the U. S. army today upon his conviction on charges of conspiracy and receiving stolen property in connection with the $1,500,000 Kronberg castle jewel theft.

It was the second conviction in the case of the stolen Hesse family jewels. Wac Capt. Kathleen Nash Durant was sentenced earlier to five years imprisonment. Her husband and Watson's commanding officer, Col. Jack W. Durant, is awaiting trial.

Col. John Harlan Amen, Watson's attorney, had asked the U. S. military court for an acquittal on the contention that the Burlingame, Calif. officer "had no intent to steal."

The court of 10 colonels began its deliberations after hearing the chief prosecutor, Lt. Col. James Gleason, demand a conviction, charging that Watson was "playing for big stakes" and "fully realized he was taking a risk of punishment if apprehended."

Watson's attorney had based their three-day defense upon attempts to show that high-ranking officers including a general, had shared valuables found in Kronberg castle and that Watson thus saw nothing wrong in his own actions.

"I don't claim," Amen said, "that Watson showed great intelligence in these transactions. What I do say is that you are not dealing with a criminal. Don't send this boy back to civilian life in disgrace."

Amen, pointing out that Watson had spent five months in jail awaiting trial, asked "has he not already been punished enough for his stupidity?"

The prosecution said Watson's defense that the treasure was "legitimate loot" was an "insult to the armed forces of the United States."

UN ASSEMBLY ADDS QUESTION TO ITS AGENDA

General Debate Expected with Clash Over Method of Enforcement.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—Soviet Russia's proposals for world arms reduction were assured a full airing in the United Nations assembly when the 14-nation general committee decided today to include the disarmament question in the assembly's agenda.

The committee agreed unanimously to send the armaments issue to the 51-nation assembly and to have it referred immediately to the assembly's political committee.

The proposal to put the question on the agenda was offered by British Delegate Philip J. Noel-Baker as soon as the general (steering) committee met at 10 a. m. EST.

"I accept the proposal of the representative of the United Kingdom," said Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky.

No other delegates spoke on the question.

Committee action on the arms issue was confined to the Soviet proposals, but it was taken for granted that once they came up the debate would embrace all arms proposals including demands by the United States that adequate inspection and enforcement measures be adopted along with any limitation action.

Clash Over Safeguards

These safeguards were expected to provide the issue over which the major powers would clash when the debate finally started.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov seeks to reduce arms and outlaw atomic weapons by agreement but Warren R. Austin, chief of the U. S. delegation, declared last night that the United Nations must go beyond that to guard against secret armament.

Russia to date has persistently rejected inspection proposals. The argument thus boils down to the basic issue involved in the prolonged Russian-American disagreement over atomic energy control.

A clash also was expected to develop, possibly in assembly debate tomorrow, over reports on the number of troops the great powers have in foreign countries—despite the fact that Molotov and Austin both said such reports ought to be made.

Another clash, reflecting the split between Russia and the West, appeared to be in the making over complaints filed against Britain and Greece last night by President Enver Hoxha of Albania. He accused four British warships, one of which was afire, of violating "the integrity of our country" Oct. 22; said British planes violated the Albanian borders Oct. 23, and accused the Greeks of creating border incidents.

Asks UN Intervention

Hoxha addressed his entreaty to UN Secretry Trygve Lie and asked that the assembly should intervene to protect Albania and put down "such provocations against our country."

Some delegates privately considered it significant of the state of United Nations affairs that one of the most heavily applauded speeches in Austin's American policy speech to the assembly last night was the "As for the last war" (the United States) must take the lessons of preventing such wars, we shall not repeat the [illegible]

U. S. ACTION SOUGHT TO CONSERVE GAS

"It would appropriate for the federal power commission to act now to prevent further chaos by urging the state commissions to direct the distributors of Panhandle gas not to take on any more new house heating customers while the emergency lasts," the Michigan counsel said.

FPC Examiner Robert S. Marsh then commented that "the strange thing to me is that no action has been taken by state commissions before this."

Lemuel McAllister, FPC counsel, told the hearing that counsel representing state commissions had "already indicated a willingness on the part of the various commissions to carry out such a curtailment program."

Panhandle wholesales natural gas to customers in Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Michigan, Missouri, Ohio and Texas.

Let's Pay Them A Fair Wage

Only by voting this 2-mill school levy will we be able to replace retiring and resigning teachers with the quality of instructors our children deserve. Our teachers are now grossly underpaid. They rank very close to the bottom, in Ohio, in salaries paid. We can't be too proud of this.

Nations Snap Up Russian Proposal For Disarmament

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Many delegates to the United Nations assembly feel that Russian Foreign Minister Molotov's Monday speech indicated distrust or misunderstanding of the motives of the United States and other nations, but they were quick to jump on his disarmament bandwagon.

Previously, general disarmament had hardly been considered a topic suddenly it became a general desire, but with the proviso that it must be accompanied by international inspection and guarantees similar to those suggested by the U. S. for the atom bomb. It will prove a tough provision when it comes to convincing the Russians.

But Molotov's proposal could hardly have been better timed to coincide with the Austin restatement followed by a brief word from President Truman, of American policy. For those who may have forgotten frequent failure to implement that policy for a lack of more than a few lines are sufficient to describe it. It has always been the same, both abroad and at home.

U. S. For Disarmament

Austin said the U. S. is for removing the burden of arms, for a decent life and for a rising standard of living in the light of the golden rule. Truman said there was a special connotation in world affairs to be drawn from the famous words "government of the people, by the people, for the people."

Whatever tangents may have been taken in individual cases, those points still remain fixed and all-inclusive.

Mr. Austin was not inclined to grapple with Mr. Molotov in an atmosphere of recrimination. But he did get in some oblique digs. Such as "the initiative of the Soviet Union in this (disarmament) matter is appropriate, because of its mighty armies," and then softened it with "just as the initiative of the United States was appropriate in proposing measures to prevent the manufacture and use of atomic weapons."

The size of Russia's army and its deployment outside her borders has been one of the first causes of world nervousness. It is one of the chief reasons why the United States feels forced to maintain the greatest peace-time forces in her history.

Russ Forces Unknown

What Russia actually has, and therefore what must be kept to balance her, is not known. In 1938 according to best available figures, Russia had an army of some 2,500,000 men, on which she spent about $5,500,000,000 at the 1938 price of the ruble. For next year she plans to spend some $13,500,000,000 on defense, at the current ruble rate which we have no means of comparing with 1938. In a monopolistic state, where supplies are produced for need, without profit, under a monetary system which has different rates according to the use of which money is put, and where there is no outer yardstick by which to measure the pay and other remuneration of troops, money figures don't mean much. Except that Russia probably maintains a greater proportion of her wartime strength than any other major power.

Since all military preparations involve obsolescence in peace and destruction in war, they represent a complete capital loss.

They wrap themselves about nations like old men of the sea, choking the living standards of the world. Any move to loosen the grip is welcomed. But, while to seek the means may be good, there seems to be no reason to expect limitations or controls to be any more effective than in the past. Armies, atom bombs, and war materials in general all fall into the same category. Any plan which will actually control them will control war itself, and neither is likely to happen before the other.

FIRE CAUSES $2,000 DAMAGE AT MORRAL

Roof on M. E. Warner Residence Ignited by Sparks.

Fire damaged the home of Mr and Mrs M. E. Warner of Morral Wednesday at 3:05 p. m. when sparks from the chimney ignited the shingle roof, Morral Fire Chief Charles Faurot reported today.

The roof of the house was nearly destroyed, Chief Faurot said, and he estimated damage at $2,000. The building was covered by insurance.

The Morral volunteer fire department fought the blaze for nearly 45 minutes before bringing it under control. Two lines of hose were used and nearly 22,500 gallons of water consumed, firemen estimated. A fire well from which the water was drawn was pumped nearly dry, although there were other neighboring wells which could have been used, the chief said.

Mr. Warner operates a barber shop in Morral.

Federated Clubs Arrange Art Display in Downtown Stores

Starting Friday, windows in the downtown district will display the work of Marion residents in the annual observance of National Art week. Sponsoring the observance this year, as in former years, is the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs, with the fine arts department in charge. Honor awards, together with honorable mention, will be made. Exhibits are open to all interested persons as well as clubwomen.

The displays are to include all crafts, the sponsors announced. Three judges have been appointed and honors will be awarded under the following rules: exhibition in place by 10 a. m. Friday; percentage of club membership cooperating in securing articles exhibited; greatest number of articles sold; artistic arrangement of exhibits.

Mrs. Walter E. Hane, federation art chairman, is in charge, and she is being assisted by Miss Edith Keeler, art instructor in the public schools and Miss Mabel Wheatley, state chairman of art. The committee is made up of all art chairmen of clubs in the federation.

The project has been indorsed by the General Federation of Women's Clubs for many years and Ohio was among the first to accept it the chairman said. It has been made a state requirement in the art contests of the state organization and Marion county has observed the week since it was established in 1933.

"American Art Week," established in 1933 has as its objective the arousing of widespread interest in contemporary visual art by exhibiting, during the first week in November, the works of American men and women in the fine arts and crafts, not necessarily connected with any organization or club. Serving as a national managing board are outstanding leaders in art in this country, including the president of the National Academy of Design, president of the American Water Color Society and many others. "Art Week" is the outgrowth of the Public Works Administration established in 1933 and during the last 13 years the creative works of artists and craftsmen have been popularized through community exhibits. An objective this year, as in former years, is to encourage talented citizens in an effort to develop their craftsmanship and establish a public art market for the sale of creative art.

No Coat-Tails To Cling To

STATISTICALLY, the prediction that enough Democratic seats in the house of representatives will be lost this year to give Republicans control of the lower house is based on precedent.

In every midterm election since the Civil war, except 1934, the party in control of the house has lost seats. In seven of these 20 elections, it lost enough seats to give control to the opposition party. Average losses have been more than 49 seats.

The last time control of the house went over to the opposition before the party in power lost the presidency was in 1930, when Herbert Hoover was stranded in the White House for the second half of his term with a Democratic majority in the house of representatives. In 1946, there is a similar situation even more unfavorable for the incumbent president in one respect than the situation in 1930.

Mr. Hoover had been elected to the presidency on his own popularity. Members of his party were identified with his success as a presidential candidate still a factor in 1930. Mr. Truman, on the other hand, never was elected to the presidency. Like all other Democratic candidates in 1944, he won his election—to the vice presidency—on the coat-tails of Franklin D. Roosevelt. For most Democratic candidates for the house of representatives in this election, it is their first attempt to win votes without the help of the most powerful pair of coat-tails the Democratic party ever produced to cling to when there was an election to be weathered. Mr. Truman's coat-tails are no substitute. On the contrary, they are a handicap.

Boost in Real Wages

AN IDEA buregeoning in some of the quieter corners of the organized labor movement may blossom into extremely important consequences.

It is an idea that organized labor has been overlooking one of the most obvious ways to obtain an increase in real wages, as distinct from the increases in money wages that have been its chief preoccupation during and since the war. Real wages are buying power.

Money-wage increases have been eaten up by rising prices and higher living costs, tempting some spokesmen for unions to think about more strikes for more money increases to bring about higher costs, higher prices and still more strikes for more increases. But real-wage increases, if they could be managed, would give workers not only the immediate benefit of more buying power; they would give them long-range benefits in savings.

There are two obvious ways to increase real wages. One is to bring down prices while maintaining money wages—to make a wage earner's dollar go further. The other is to divert into buying power some of that part of the wage earner's dollar now consumed by taxation. Thus, from the standpoint of benefit to wage earners, economy in government spending that would lead to a substantial reduction in income taxes would be a more substantial wage boost than most of the boosts in money wages which unions have obtained by strikes and threats of strikes.

There could be higher wages without any increase in prices, but they would be higher real wages—the only kind that matters in the long run. What $35 a week in wages will buy is more important than the $35.

Crazy Like a Hess

COL. BURTON C. ANDRUS, prison commander at Nuernberg, reveals that Rudolph Hess, ranking Nazi since Goering's death, is full of good spirits despite his sentence of life imprisonment and displays a keen, alert memory. His "craziness" seems to have been more temporary than permanent.

The possibility that Hess might manage to escape and rally a Nazi following among the thousands of party members driven underground by Germany's defeat suggests that one vital point about the Nuernberg trials has been neglected. It was of first importance that the ringleaders of the German conspiracy be disposed of, to prevent a resurgence of Nazi-ism. It was of secondary importance that they be disposed of in a way that would prove to their followers that the victors in World War II believed in something of a higher order than the rule by rifle which was the Nazi dictatorship's trademark. To be sure, it might have been more expedient to execute them with no trial at all. But in that event, it would be ticklish to try to maintain that the victors were of any higher order of civilization than the vanquished.

Ironically, a Hess serving a life sentence, or a Schacht turned loose conceivably may become the source of trouble in the future. They are the gamble that must be taken in the attempt to prove that Allied retribution for the crime of World War II was in fact based on something a little higher than warrior vengeance.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—The preparation Mr. Truman has made for the domestic atomic era appear somewhat on the left-leaning side. Instead of a businessman or scientist, the President has chosen the administrator who built up the Tennessee Valley Authority. Yet strangely enough not a word of criticism was lodged against his appointment or his choice of the governing commission which includes an atomic physicist, a New York banker, a securities commissioner and an Iowa editor—but still not a business man.

The personnel apparently was somewhat surprising to some congressmen. Although Iowa's Republican Senator Hickenlooper was on the senate atomic bomb committee which framed legislation, Hickenlooper had no comment. The leftists like Senator Pepper were out replenishing from the stump their depleated popular resources so no comment came from them. The other congressmen on hand seemed surprised and said nothing, perhaps believing with Republican Senator Bridges that the President "should have picked the top men of the nation" for a task so lofty as to be unapproximated in all history.

Men Hard To Find

The explanation afforded by close administration men is that Mr. Truman found it impossible to get the men he wanted. Dr. Conant of Harvard being mentioned as one. One other top business man I know was consulted, but all would have found it necessary to give up their life's work and devote themselves hereafter to the government planning of atomic developments and control, including the industrial and scientific aspects as well as the military production. The President's long delay in naming the commission is therefore not accurately attributable to any desire to make the appointments on the eve of election, but upon the fact he could not get the men.

So he took a tried administrator, a banker to look after the financial side of what might happen to stocks and bonds in government controlled development of energy, a newspaperman who might be expected to look after the publicity side, and a physicist who knew something about the matter.

Now the President said these were not political choices (presumably meaning neither Democrats nor Republican in implication, which is correct), but the designation of Lilienthal gave such a clear left-leaning character to the commission that at least one congressional sage was heard to suggest: "The atomic era is apparently going to be Socialistic." Such interpretation was not entirely justifiable. The law itself assures government development of the experiments—necessarily so. Lilienthal has frequently been charged with radicalism, but his TVA worked. The military was practically excluded from the commission jobs, although its influence would not be political either, as between leftists and rightists (the President wanted to give an exclusive peace character to the commission, and thus it contains only the banker who was a war time rear admiral in charge of ordnance).

The New York and Washington newspapers immediately agreed it was a good commission, and most comment was favorable.

Some Are Worried

What the atomic age will be like politically under such a commission is a question calling for personal wisdom. When the matter of furnishing energy to separate manufacturers comes up, and when the question of government industrial controls meets private industry headon, and when the issue of what may be done about certain corporate bonds and stocks arises—then you will receive an answer.

Pending that decision I noticed a little worried look in the unanimity of the cheering section over Mr. Truman's decision to entrust the beginning of the matter to a man who has operated an exclusive government power enterprise in competition with private business.

The civilian production administration has rescinded the order restricting use of cloth in feminine apparel.

Not only is meat back with us but also leg-o-mutton sleeves.

As a consequence of CPA's action, fashion designers expect a lengthening of skirts, which have been rising as steadily as Republican optimism . . . though offtimes with less justification.

Cloth conservation found its most notable support among gals with the loveliest legs. They welcome an opportunity simultaneously to display their patriotism and their knees.

"Save cloth" was the watchword and the thigh was the limit. But, now that the emergency is over, only prices will be high.

This is hard on men, and not alone those with the roving eye, coming right at a time to outmode ma's new winter wardrobe.

Incidentally, while they're making things longer, how about some shirt-tail relief?

Battle for Congress

By RAYMOND MOLEY

(This is the third of series of six articles on the political situation.)

* * *

THIS survey has now covered 43 states from which, according to the best estimates, there will be sent to the next House of Representatives 202 Republicans. Five states remain to be considered: Missouri, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Wasnington and California. The ultimate outcome in all these states is most difficult to predict. Late reports are confusing. Results in several districts hang on many circumstances which will not be apparent until the vote is counted.

In Missouri, as the final days of the campaign open, the best and most impartial observers see a considerable Republican advantage. Senator Frank P. Briggs, Democrat, seems to be in serious difficulty. If he loses by a substantial vote to his opponent, James P. Kem, an additional house seat may shift to the Republican side. In any event, it looks as if the Eighth district, narrowly won in 1944, will shift back to its former Republican status. Also, the eleventh, a St. Louis district, will return to the Republican fold. Both seats were Republican in 1942. Another St. Louis seat, formerly held by John J. Cochran, will probably go with the senatorship. The fight for the Slaughter district, in which President Truman figured in the primary, is hot, but it isn't safe to underestimate the ability of the Pendergast machine backed by the national administration. The national administration will make a heavy drive in Missouri before election. A rock-bottom guess of two Republicans is indicated, which will give the state eight Republican congressmen.

Oklahoma Campaign

Oklahoma is having a terrific campaign, with considerable indications of a Republican trend. It is a state in which sharp changes occur between elections. It now has two Republicans and will probably elect three.

Anything can happen in New Mexico, where Patrick J. Hurley is battling with the veteran Sen. Dennis Chavez. Two congressmen are elected at large. No Republican congressmen have been elected in New Mexico since 1928, although the late Sen. Bronson Cutting won narrowly in 1934. Republicans count on a considerable vote for Hurley among former Oklahomans in the eastern part of the state and on the break between Chavez and Gov. John J. Dempsey. Money and patronage count heavily in the state, and there will be plenty of both. But unless there is a heavy trend, it would not be wise to claim any Republican congressmen.

Washington Confused

The situation in Washington is extremely confused. Strangely enough, there seems to be voter apathy, especially in Republican counties. The congressional districts have strong individuality and are less likely to follow the senatorship vote than in most states. The two sitting Republicans seem safe. Observers out there think that the Third district, which was Republican in 1942 by a substantial majority and Democratic in 1944, will return to the Republicans. Two other contests are close. Best guess is three Republicans from Washington.

Last, and far from least, is California. Private opinions from Democrats suggest a gain of four seats for the Republicans. Private opinions from Republicans are pessimistic. The foregoing sentences characterize the confusion which prevails. All things considered, however, two seats—one in the Oakland area; another in Los Angeles county, now represented by Ellis Patterson—should certainly shift. Republican chances are fair in San Diego and good in Long Beach. A fairly safe guess is that California will elect ten Republicans.

With the 24 seats counted in this article, this survey anticipates Republican control of the House with 226 seats. I believe it is a conservative estimate. The reader is offered only one assurance: That every effort has been made to get the proper facts and opinions.

In the next column in this series, the senate prospects will be considered. In the final articles, to be published on the eve of election, there will be a checkup based on last-minute information.

Molotov Fires A Counterattack

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE chickens have come home to roost. Russian Foreign Minister Molotov's address to the United Nations Assembly is the powerful counterattack to which we have exposed ourselves because the strategic plan and the tactics of our peace-making have been based on a deep miscalculation of the situation.

Our strategic plan has been to concentrate our diplomatic efforts on an attempt by negotiation to reduce the power of the Soviet Union in eastern Europe—in the sphere of influence where the Red Army is dominant. We have not succeeded because one cannot by argument compel an army to go home.

In devoting a year to this argument, we have lost a year which could have been devoted to constructive effort in the sphere where the British and Americans have influence and power—in western Germany and western Europe in the Mediterranean and the Middle East, and in the colonial areas of Africa and Asia.

When our diplomatic campaign against the Russian orbit had failed, as it did in Paris, the Soviet counteroffensive began. Once it had been proved that we could not compel the Red Army to retire from eastern Europe, when the small states in the Russian orbit had been compelled to commit themselves publicly and irretrievably, the Russian position was consolidated. Then the time had come as Molotov has shown so spectacularly, for a varied but concerted diplomatic attack on our unorganized, unsettled, grossly neglected sphere of influence.

Molotov's Counterattack

We had fixed our attention on the Red Army in eastern Europe; Molotov has counterattacked by fixing attention on the British and American forces which are dispersed in so many parts of the world.

We had fixed attention on the absence of democracy and independence in the Russian zone; Molotov fixes attention on Spain and Greece, and exploits against us the whole seething discontent of the dependent and the colonial peoples.

All this was to be expected. All this was foreseen and foreseeable. When we abandoned the idea of a general settlement in Europe and in the world, attacked the Russians where they are strongest and we the weakest, and neglected to build up our own position and system where we could be strong, we were following a strategic plan which was self-defeating.

Our tactics — the procedure which we invented for the peace-making—are based on the same kind of miscalculation and have proved to be equally self-defeating. Finding that we could not argue the Russians out of the Russian orbit, our tactics have been to insist on open debate and public votes. Our theory was that this would enlighten and arouse public opinion, and that the Russians would in the end bow to it.

But the theory overlooks the most obvious of the facts—namely that while it has aroused, and perhaps enlightened, public opinion in the western countries, public opinion is still censored and managed in the Russian orbit. In challenging the Russians to a propaganda contest, the weapons were, therefore, quite unequal.

On our side of the iron curtain, the Russians were free to say what they chose and they were bound to be heard. On their side of the iron curtain, we could not be heard. It is, therefore, hard to imagine why we thought this was going to be a profitable contest for us. For we promoted the contest under conditions in which we were at a hopeless disadvantage.

Situation Exploited

Molotov has now exploited the situation which we created for him. We wanted propaganda instead of diplomacy, and we are certainly getting it. Molotov addresses the western world and sows confusion within it, secure in the knowledge that he can decide how the ensuing debate is to be reported in the Soviet zone.

There is no way out of this dangerous morass except by retracing our steps. We must return to diplomacy—that is to say we must concentrate our effort on the negotiation of a general settlement—one in which eastern Europe is considered in relation to Germany and as part of Europe, in which not only the Red Army, or the atomic bomb, but the whole distribution and balance of military power, is examined together.

This is the necessary thing to do and it is not an impossible thing to do. The strategy of the World War was global. It was possible for the heads of governments and the chiefs of staff to realize the relative importance of all the many theaters, and to allocate their efforts under a common plan. They did not allow themselves to become preoccupied and fascinated by one theater, or one weapon, or one local enterprise.

The tragedy of the peace is that none of the men—not the top men or their great lieutenants—who learned the hard way to regard the world as strategically one world, is now engaged in settling the war.

As the courage and the sacrifices would have been in vain had the war been misconceived, so good intention, high ideals, patience, firmness, sincerity and good will, will now be in vain if the problem of a global settlement is wrongly conceived.

Since the world is strategically one world, the diplomacy of the settlement is certain to fail ignominiously and disastrously, in a cataract of pious abstractions and ugly words, if the Big Three do not find men who know how to take this great and controlling reality as the major premise and the first principle of their calculation, their plans and their daily expedients.

If we had paid no more attention to our plants than we have to our children, we would now be living in a jungle of weeds.—Luther Burbank.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Getting Rid of the Baronial H

THE P. Jarvis Whortleburys 2d, outstanding personalities among the "filthy rich" in America, were worried. Their superdooper estate had become a little too much for them. They were finding their two country estates a great problem. Their town house, taking an entire block, had become a headache.

"We've just got to face it," said Whortlebury 2d.

"I guess you're right," said Mrs. Whortlebury. "I ran over the bills this month. The upkeep is more than we can stand."

"Remember, my dear," said Whortlebury, "there is always one way out."

"What is that?" asked the wife.

"We can always sell or lease to the Communists," he replied.

* * *

"Well, for goodness sake, why haven't you done it?" demanded the Mrs.

"I can't find a Communist who has reached that state of frenzied devotion to the rights of the masses which requires that he live in the American capitalistic pattern," said Whortlebury.

"The Pratts and the Morgans leased some estates to the Reds long ago," added his wife petulantly.

"They didn't get what they could if they wanted," insisted P. Jarvis Whortlebury 2d. "The men from Moscow were only mildly opposed to everything capitalistic at that time, confining their objections to their feelings expressed today. They like mansions and sumptuous homes and living so deeply that last week it was announced Mr. Gromyko was negotiating for three of the finest old homes in the swankiest section of New York to be remodeled and put into exactly fine shape for delegates from Moscow."

"Why don't you?" demanded Mrs. Whortlebury. "We can't just sit around with one of the finest collections of baronial estates in the country while other American millionaires let the Russians to take their places offhand."

"I figure that at the present rate of the collapse of the capitalistic system and all things pertaining to riches, Stalin's envoys will reach a point where they will pay even fancy prices to enjoy all those things," said Whortlebury.

* * *

"What about that people from Moscow who Glen Cove place last month?" asked the wife.

The Communists looked it over carefully and reported that three outdoor swimming pools were inadequate. To have the rich suffer it requires at least four."

"Didn't some Russian agent approach you about our Tuxedo estate?"

"Yes, they rather liked the name. 'Commencement Manor,' but thought the hothouses a little too short and a little narrow."

* * *

"What about the other place, 'Alabama Heights?' The hothouses there are the finest in America. They are the only three-story hothouses."

"Molotov, Vishinsky and Gromyko have been there together to look things over, and I think we had a sale," said Mr. Whortlebury, "but no dice."

"What happened?" asked Mrs. Whortlebury.

"The orchids were on the second floor," said Mr. Whortlebury, "and there will have to be a new excuse."

EPITAPH FOR OPA

The Blankety OPA

By TRUMAN TWILL

This is embarrassing. Who'd have guessed that we patriots would miss OPA after the first twist of the knife?

The trouble is, we've lost the handiest excuse America ever had in peacetime for doing the wrong way: "It's the * * * OPA";

For a while, of course, the melody will be the same. The customer will jump on the merchant, the merchant will jump on the distributor, the distributor will jump on the manufacturer. The manufacturer, remembering how everything happened to get fouled up in the first place, will send word back down the line: "It's still the * * * OPA!"

But as time goes on, the fall guy at the end of the line will start to ask, "What OPA?"—and there will have to be a new excuse. A man in Dubuque, Ia., lifted his left eyebrow a few days ago when he heard the old refrain, and knew the beginning of a trend.

The OPA, heaven rest its bureaucratic soul, was really quite an outfit. During the war, according to its own publicity, it could do no wrong. No one thought of blaming it for anything. "Doncha know there's a war on?" was the password. But like a champion who tries to stay on his luck, OPA hung around until it got itself knocked off.

So now it's time to start looking for a new excuse. There's no war on. There's no depression worth mentioning, or won't be in a few months. It isn't going to be long until the country needs a new whipping boy.

There's no lack of candidates. The labor unions are bidding high for the job of American public goat, if things continue to go wrong after OPA finally is dead and gone. The Commies are a handy place where lightning might strike. A great many are inclined to blame everything on Harry Truman.

A country which has been able to blame its troubles on the tariff, gold, Bryanism, technological unemployment, Hoover, Tories—and a half dozen other fellows and situations—never will lack one more handy excuse. But it's awful hard when an old one conks out and a new one has to be found in a hurry.

There's an uneasy period of transition when it occurs to the thoughtful that maybe, just maybe, the fault may not lie with the excuses, but all but with the American people themselves.

That's why we're missing the OPA these days. It was a mean trick, to take away the best excuse we ever had not to put the blame where it belonged—on ourselves.

TODAY'S YOUTH

More Than Fine Neighborhood Needed To Rear Good Children

The following is one of a series of six articles dealing with the problems confronting today's children, which should be of interest to every American parent who hopes for a better world tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

By KATHARINE LENROOT
Chief, U. S. Children's Bureau
Written Exclusively for Associated Press Newsfeatures

WASHINGTON—Most parents, understandably, strive to bring their children up in a good neighborhood. But is that enough? What of the kind of neighborhood other children are being brought up in, children upon whom this nation also is dependent if it is to grow strong and great?

I have these other children especially in mind, for we at the Children's Bureau perhaps know more about them than do most. Just recently one of our doctors brought in a report of the terrible degradation under which hundreds of children are living in a migratory labor camp, near one of the wealthiest communities in this country. Being a doctor she uses medical terms to try to impress upon us the need to do something about the situation.

"It's a source of infection for the entire country," she said, "for these people do not stay put. They are traveling with their families up and down this country, following the crops and going off elsewhere for what jobs they can get. They are carrying deep and bitter hatreds with them and they will infect others. Their children are growing up just like them, without a chance in this world."

City Slum Stories

Others who report to us tell us scarcely less terrible stories about children in our city slums. We hear of children in jail because there is no other place provided for their detention, and of children for whom foster homes need to be found, but "there is no money." Still another large group for whom we are always being urged to do something are those children whose fathers must earn a living away from home.

From all sides we are told of children who are being neglected, mistreated, and abused. Sometimes they are living just around the corner from those good neighborhoods where other children are being brought up with the best the country has to offer available to them.

Between these two groups are others (perhaps they are in the majority), who are growing up with far, far less than we know so well how to provide if they are to have opportunity for their fullest development.

Now, we cannot give to all children an equal chance, but can we not give them at least a reasonable chance?

Way To Improve

I think we can if parents will extend to the entire community their neighborhood interest. What they need to do is to work together, as they did in the war years, toward a common goal. That peacetime goal might very well be to secure the best possible chance for the most children. I think that goal would turn out to be something like this.

1. For each child a good home with the love and care of both parents.
2. A healthy start in life.
3. Schooling for every child to the maximum of his capacities and his powers.
4. Companionship with other children, free of humiliating barriers of race or class or creed.
5. Anopportunity for self-expression and spiritual growth.
6. Full preparation for useful work in a trade, a business, or a profession.
7. A chance in adult life for a reasonable measure of security for himself and his family, with ever broadening avenues for participation in the affairs of the neighbohood, the community, and the nation.

This, said in a thousand different and better ways, is, I am sure, the shape of things most parents hope for their children. The problem is to so clarify those aspirations, and so hold them before us, that we can all see the way to their achievement, not only for the children of our own neighborhood, but of all neighborhdoods.

At no time during World War II were the United Nations short of one of the most important strategic minerals — the industrial diamond.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

About 10,000 visitors to the campus are expected Saturday, Shipps says.

22,739 RESTAURANTS INSPECTED BY 28

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 30—Ohio has 22,739 licensed restaurants—the greatest number in history—but only 28 inspectors who must share their time with other duties, State Fire Marshal Harry J. Callan said today.

He predicted the restaurants would go to 23,000 by Nov. 5, last day for 1946 licenses, and that the number of hotel and dry cleaning licenses also would hit new highs.

Callan said his office, charged with the licensing of hotels, restaurants and dry cleaning establishments, had to use the inspectors to investigate all "questionable" fires, inspection for fire hazards of all public buildings as well as inspect the restaurants.

"I am continually amazed by the amount of work that staff of inspectors is able to turn out," Callan commented. "They are doing a fine job."

Under the Ohio hotel and restaurant laws, every restaurant must be inspected once each year.

"In order to keep our inspections up-to-date," Callan said, "we are forced to use every facility we can lay our hands on. Local officials have been tremendously cooperative."

Licenses as of Tuesday Callan said, numbered 1,375 for hotels, already a record, and 1,000 for dry cleaning establishments, just five licenses shy of the previous high.

Previous peak year was 1941, when the state licenses 20,850 restaurants, 1,316 hotels and 1,095 dry cleaners, with total fees of $107,728.

Court Action Seen Over Barney Oldfield Estate

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 30—A contest was in the making today over the estate of the one-time king of the auto racing ovals, Barney Oldfield.

His widow Bessie, whom he married 30 years ago, divorced, and remarried less than a year before he died Oct. 4, recently petitioned for letters of administration of the estate, stating that he left no will.

Yesterday, Barney's second wife, Hulda Braden Oldfield, filed for probate a will dated Jan. 25, 1928, leaving all the estate to her. Oldfield divorced her shortly before he remarried Bessie.

Hulda's lawyer said she claims all the estate other than the widow's legal share, estimating its value at $4,700 in jewelry and personal property and $13,600 in cash.

WASHINGTON PASTOR IS EPWORTH SPEAKER

Dares Church To Move from Established Tradition.

A dare to "move out from established traditions" was brought the audience at the second session of the Epworth Methodist school of Religion at Epworth church last night by Dr. John Rustin, pastor of Mt. Vernon Place Methodist church in Washington, D. C. He spoke on "The City Church Meets a Challenge." Dr. E. Busler, Epworth pastor, presided, and Miss Maye Evangeline Lawrence presented organ music. The message by Dr. Rustin followed the four seminar studies led by specialists in the field of religious education brought to Marion each Wednesday night for the Epworth school series.

Dr. Rustin declared that the city church, to meet the difficulties of the day, must pioneer, that there are opportunities on many sides to discover new ways of meeting problems, but if those opportunities on many sides to discover new ways of meeting problems, but if those opportunities meet closed minds, no progress can be made.

"The church must have vision," he stressed, and "You can't run away," he said. "If you allow a rotten spot in the heart of a city, that spot will spread even to the perfect residential districts," he maintained.

"What makes for crime and juvenile delinquency?" he asked, "alleys and slums, and the lack of a chance for girls and boys of 12, 13 and 14 years of age to find anything to do but seek out unwholesome rendezvous."

His answer to the problem was for the church to "move out . . . move away from our warped emotions, establish social equality, and leave behind established traditions," and to be aware that it takes leadership on the part of everyone concerned to go forward." Points of action for the church, he outlined as showing concern for the recreational life of its people, establishing so many activities there will be no time for unwholesome living; providing inspiration in the services of the church, teaching worship; and instructing with classes and research in the foundation truths of the Bible, growing and widening finally to world action.

Canadian Pulpwood Freed from Ceiling

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—OPA today removed price ceilings from pulpwood imported from the three Canadian provinces of Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

The price agency said it had decided that ceiling prices established in Canada by the Canadian government were "sufficient to insure satisfactory price controls and no purpose will be served in having parallel OPA ceilings."

The new Canadian ceilings which were raised last July 8 ranged from $8.30 to $10.25 a cord on board cars at Canadian shipping points.

MRS. FLOY WIDEMAN INJURED IN ACCIDENT

Marion Teacher in Hospital at St. Paul, Minn.

Mrs. Floy Wideman, who is on medical leave from her duties as a teacher in the Marion city schools, was injured in an automobile accident at St. Paul, Minn. Monday, according to word received by her son, Clark Wideman of Columbus. She is in St. Joseph hospital in St. Paul, where the attending physician says her condition is not serious. She suffered three broken ribs, chest injuries which have not been definitely diagnosed as yet and a minor concussion which is clearing up satisfactorily.

The accident occurred when a car in which Mrs. Wideman was riding collided with another automobile at a street intersection in St. Paul. The driver of the car, a teacher in the St. Paul schools, was only slightly injured.

Mrs. Wideman is under observation and recieving treatment at the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn. She probably will remain in the hospital for three weeks her son has been advised.

ESTONIAN REFUGEES UNDER U. S. ORDERS

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 31 — The attorney general of the United States assumed authority over 48 Estonian refugees who sailed 6,000 miles from Sweden in small boats, and a representative he sent here said today the group will not be deported until another order is given by the attorney general's office.

Thomas B. Shoemaker, deputy commissioner of immigration sent here by Attorney General Tom Clark after President Truman personally expressed concern over the Estonians, said the refugee group will remain under the supervision of the immigration department.

The next order regarding their stay in the country, however, will come direct from the attorney general, he reported.

"We are not going to take snap judgment from the standpoint of law, government and the people involved" said Shoemaker in a verval statement.

"These Estonians are not of a criminal nature, but they entered the country without visas. They will be given mature consideration in every shape and form."

It appeared that the three little bands of Europeans who fled their homeland when the Germans invaded and refused to go back after Russia occupied the country were about to win their plea for "one last chance" to enter the United States.

The continents cover a little more than one-fourth of the earth's surface.

Returning Hal Boyle Finds It's Not Same U S.

(Hal Boyle, Associated Press war correspondent and globe circling columnist, is back. He resumes his column today after a vacation in Europe and the United States. Starting with several columns of impressions gained during an 18-month trip from San Francisco to New York via the Far East and Europe, he will cover the post-war American scene as he has the scene abroad Life in New York and among the United Nations personnel there will first come under his observation).

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 — A year ago if an American overseas got word he was due for home leave every one told him enviously:

"Lucky stiff!"

Now any one coming back is consoled with:

"Pooor guy! Isn't there any way you can get out of it?"

Hal Boyle

For thousands of Americans, frightened by tales of housing shortages, food scarcities and nigh prices, have developed an allergy to the thought of returning to their native land. They are afraid to exchange their niche in Europe or the Far East, whatever its discomforts, for the uncertainties and inconveniences of life in Manhattan or Dubuque.

They are the nucleus of a new class of self-exiles, fearful innocents abroad.

Well, there is something in their fear, exaggerated as it is Coming home to America after a long absence is a mixture of terror and gladness.

In so many ways it is like the land it was, and yet in other ways, so different—this strange new United States that has emerged from the alarums of war for an uneasy excursion into peace.

It is like meeting up with a long-absent friend whose face has become so hardened by time and change you have to look deep for the old familiar features you knew and loved in other days.

Isn't Same America

For this America I have come to isn't the same land I left in Oct 1942 with General Patton's men to test our battle idealism in Africa.

General Patton is gone, his army and his banners are scattered, and the idealism that sent them selflessly forth is as tattered and worn as a blue serge suit on an Arkansas scarecrow Or so it seems at first glance.

The America of 1942 is as lost as crinoline petticoats and the five cent cigar The returning traveler feels like a reverse Rip Van Winkle reawakened to find himself back in the roaring, soaring, 1920's Only this time they appear to be achieving prohibition of more than liquor by multiplying prices and watering the product

Dismays Homing Wanderer

This new American merry-go-round first dismays a homing wanderer, but I expect you get to like it as soon as you can grab a seat.

The thing you long for first when you return is the sight of some one you knew.

Stepping off the Queen Elizabeth I felt alone and ill at ease as I stood on the pier trying to hand a customs officer a two-bit cigar so he wouldn't notice a new pair of Swiss shoes I was wearing and had forgotten to declare.

Everything seemed strange and busy. Then I looked across the water and saw a new fine ship riding at anchor. On the bow in gold letters was "Ernie Pyle," and through the lettering I could see in my mind the crinkly blue eyes and faded elf smile of my dead wartime friend, as if he gave he soundless greeting. And I took it, as the Romans would, as an omen of welcome.

Asks for Taxi

I felt more at home. Loaded with baggage I asked a traffic cop at the pier entrance to steer a cab my way and he answered:

"Grab that one—you expect me to push one right under your nose?"

I crawled in, although the interior looked more like a bombed out chicken coop than the insides of a taxi. The cab rattled me happily to the little Greenwich Village mare's nest where I have paid rent for six years.

I loped up the stair case and what do you think there was waiting for me? Yes, sir, nothing but a brand new dispossess notice from a brand new landlord telling me to go forth and seek another foxhole

Yes, America, you great big booming bunch of bedlam, I belong. Gee, it's wonderful to be back home with nothing on your mind but problems.

Ohio Grange Master Urges "Concessions"

By The Associated Press

LORAIN, O., Oct. 31—"A willingness to make concessions" by agriculture, labor and management can head off "extreme inflation or depression," Joseph W Fichter, master of the Ohio State Grange, contends

Addressing a Lorain county grange banquet at nearby Amherst yesterday, Fichter declared that while this is a period of prosperity for all groups, "the fear of what is around the corner is making them uneasy."

Pressure exerted by monopolies and organized groups prevents the natural operation of the law of supply and demand," he said.

The mean monthly temperature in Phoenix, Ariz., ranges from a low of about 51 degrees in January to a high of about 90 degrees in July, the annual mean being about 70 degrees.

OUT OF CLOSE QUARTERS

By The United Press

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—The old woman who lived in a shoe had nothing on a 62-year-old man who lived for 20 years in a room so cramped there was no space to stand or even sit. Ninety-pound Arthur J. Robinson's plight was uncovered when he was evicted from his attic quarters. No one had known he was living there His home was merely a space between the room of a one-story building and the ceiling There he had constructed a bunk of two-by fours, burlap, canvas and newspapers. "It was just like sleeping in a Pullman upper berth," he said. "It wasn't uncomfortable after you got in, and it cost a sight less."

19th Annual Detroit Halloween Street Party Ready Today

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Oct. 31—They swept off Stimson avenue again today for Louis Stone's annual Halloween party for the kids on the lower west side.

Stone, now 53, and a bachelor, started his parties 19 years ago after a mother's poignant appeal touched his heart.

The woman, whose name he never knew, entered his drug store the morning after Halloween and asked for a sedative.

"My Jimmy was killed last night," she told him simply in explaining why she couldn't sleep

Her Jimmy, blinded by his Halloween mask, stepped to his death in front of a car

In an effort to keep other youngsters from a similar fate, Stone began his Halloween parties on a modest scale in his drug store.

Seven years later he moved to a congested west side area where, he quickly learned, the kids had even less chance at happiness.

So the druggist obtained permission from the police department and roped off one block on Stimson avenue near his store for a Halloween party.

"And did the kids come," he recalled today. "They had a grand time. There was no damage done in my neighborhood while out in Grosse Pointe (an exclusive residential area) police reserves were called out to stop the damage the kids were doing"

Stone's idea found favor with the police department and served as a model for other community gatherings on Halloween.

VETS TO REPORT EARNINGS TO VA

All veterans enrolled in educational or on-the-job training courses under the GI Bill must submit reports of their earnings to the Veterans Administration before Nov. 5, it was emphasized today by VA officials. Notices describing changes in the GI Bill necessitating the report have been enclosed with the August and September checks and will be sent along with the October check, the VA said.

Statements of earnings for the last three months must be filed with VA training officers or sent to the appropriate VA regional office not later than Nov 5 Further subsistence checks will be delayed until the notice is received. This procedure follows the recent legislation which placed a limitation on subsistence allowances for veterans enrolled under the GI Gill. Subsistence allowance and outside earnings cannot exceed $175 monthly for a veteran without dependents, or $200 monthly if he has one or more dependents.

Amounts to be reported include wages, salary, commissions, bonus payments or other income received as a result of the veteran's employment or self-employment. However, the requirement does not affect disabled veterans who are in training under Public Law 16 (Vocational Rehabilitation Act.)

• • •

VA SERVICE FOR VETS IN PRISON

The Veterans Administration goes to every corner of its three-state area to provide service to the veteran—even behind the walls and bars of state penal institutions, according to officials at the Columbus Branch Office.

VA service is available to veterans in every federal jail and prison through weekly contacts. Elsewhere, VA representatives visit detention homes and city and county jails on a call basis. VA is concerned with the problems of imprisoned veterans which relate only to their service in the armed forces or pertain to the rights and benefits to which they may be entitled in accordance with the law.

Imprisoned veterans cannot receive readjustment allowances, nor can they receive subsistence allowances for education and training. However, they may enroll for a correspondence course in education or training, with VA paying the bill. They also are entitled to all benefits of National Service Life Insurance and U. S. Government Life Insurance. Those with service incurred disabilities may receive disability compensation.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. Does the Veterans Administration repay any portion of my guaranteed loan?

A. Yes. The Veterans Administration will pay to the lender for credit on the loan an amount equal to 4 per cent of the amount of guaranty used. This is a gift and is not to be repaid by the veteran.

Q. Why are payments for unemployment allowances occasionally delayed?

A. Payments may be delayed by failure of the veteran to submit necessary discharge or separation papers, to supply required information promptly or to comply with the instructions of the offices through which the claims are filed. Delay also may be caused by questions of eligibility which may arise and by appeals procedures.

Q. I am the widow of a World War II veteran and have been receiving insurance payments in monthly installments. May I now change and receive a lump sum settlement?

A. No. Lump sum settlements can be elected only by the insured on death claims occurring on or after the date of the enactment of the Insurance Act of 1946.

Q. I understand that some GI loans are negotiated at an interest rate of more than 4 per cent. Is this true?

A. The interest rate on a guaranteed loan cannot exceed 4 per cent. The interest rate on a non-real estate loan which is to be insured for the lender instead of guaranteed, may be as much as 5 7 per cent.

Q. Can a veteran who lost his discharge paper apply for readjustment allowance?

A. If the veteran has lost his original discharge or separation paper in order to present it when cate in lieu of properly authenticated copy of lost or destroyed paer in order to present it when he calls in person at the nearest public emloyment office to apply for readjustment allowance.

WRITE-IN TO WIN ON SIMPLE MAJORITY

No Minimum Number of Votes Needed for Election.

A majority vote is all that is needed to elect a candidate in a write-in campaign in the general election, the board of elections said today in answering questions asked by many persons concerning the write-in campaign for clerk of courts.

An eight per cent majority is required for nomination in a write-in primary election, the board explained, but only a simple majority will win in a general election.

The clerk of courts office is sought by at least three persons who have publicly announced their intentions to run for the job. Calvin Oborn, Republican, present clerk appointed after the resignation of Elmer E. Smith, William L. Ogan, Republican, Marion photographer, and John W. Sekinger, Democrat, decorator and former first aid instructor, all are competing in the race.

Absentee votes today reached more than 300 with the deadline for absentee balloting tonight at 6:30 p. m. The election board office remained open through the noon hour today and will stay open until 6:30 p. m. tonight to enable votes to be cast by persons who plan to be more than 30 miles from their precincts next Tuesday.

Conference Hears Former Star Employe's Solution of Newspaper Printing Problem

Invention of a method for solving a problem in the printing of newspapers which has bothered publishers and their mechanical experts ever since perfecting presses came into use, was reported this week by F. L. Yeager, production manager of the Indianapolis Star, who started his career as a pressroom apprentice with The Marion Star 28 years ago.

Mr. Yeager's invention, revealed by him in a paper read Tuesday at a session of the three-day Great Lakes Newspaper Mechanical Conference in Indianapolis, is aimed at eliminating conditions which may cause ink "offset" or "smear" to show on approximately half of the pages in a newspaper printed on the presses used by virtually all modern daily publications. The major damage from the offset is done to pictures appearing on the affected pages.

Newspapers consist of what are technically known as "first impression" and "second impression" pages. The first impression pages are those which are printed on one side and then pass between cylinders of the press mechanism to have another page—a second impression—printed on the reverse side of the sheet. The problem of long standing has been how to prevent the first printed page from becoming smeared with the so-called offset when the second impression page is printed on the reverse side.

New Drawsheet Devised

Sheets of fabric called blankets or drawsheets are used as packing to cover the press cylinders over which the paper passes in making printing contact with the stereotyped page plates and ink left on the drawsheets has been the cause of the offset problem. Mr. Yeager, according to tests and actual operations extending over several months, has arrived at a solution of the difficulty by using a new fabric drawsheet coated with tiny glass spheres. This provides a surface for the drawsheet which does not retain ink from printed pages passing over it and thus prints first impression pages free from offset. The coating of this newly devised drawsheet consists of approximately 50,000 glass spheres to the square inch.

"The problem was a difficult one because of the rapidity of newspaper press operation," Mr. Yeager reported to the Indianapolis conference. "The time interval between the first and second impressions is only a fraction of a second. Paper webs travel at surface speeds ranging from 1,000 to 1,500 feet per minute." Explaining that at 1,100 feet per minute "the time interval between printing the first and second impressions is only approximately one-third of a second," he points out that "the ink does not have time to become fully absorbed by the paper and thus some of the first impression printing is transferred or offset onto the face of the drawsheet on the second impression cylinder. The pressure of the second printing, applied to the paper and with the paper against this ink retaining drawsheet face, causes the ink to be applied to the first impression side." This is the trouble which the glass-beaded, ink-resisting drawsheet devised by Mr. Yeager is credited with eliminating.

Development and Tests

The paper read by Mr. Yeager before the Conference was lengthy and technical and reviewed the record of his numerous experiments, extending over approximately 16 years. He related that the "development, as well as a considerable amount of previous experimental work, has been sponsored by the management of the Indianapolis Star. Thus the Star is the first to offer a means for insuring newspaper first impression printing free from offset."

He told the Conference that, "As of Aug. 29, the last set of beaded drawsheets has been on our presses four months without change. About 10,000,000 papers or sections have been printed during that time."

The engraving above shows what a highly magnified section of the glass-coated drawsheet looks like. Indication of the degree of magnification is evident from the fact that the glass-coated cloth actually has 50,000 tiny glass spheres to the square inch.

Experiments Started in Marion

Although Mr. Yeager's final achievement came as the result of comparatively recent experiments, he revealed in his talk to the Conference that he began working on the problem when foreman of the pressroom and stereotyping department at the Marion Star. This was at the suggestion and in cooperation with The Star's management. He related, "In 1930, on Duplex tubular presses at the Marion Star, Marion, Ohio, one of my experiments convinced me that a solution of the first impression printing problem could be obtained by utilizing a different kind of cylinder packing."

His experiments have continued steadily since his early ones in Marion, along with work resulting in other advancements in printing and publishing technique. Among these have been improvements in color printing and use of perfumed inks in printing advertisements of perfumes and cosmetics. Extensive study and research into the chemistry of inks and metals has been included. His experiments have been conducted at the Indianapolis newspaper plant and in a laboratory at his home.

Record of Experience

Mr. Yeager began his career in 1918 as an apprentice in the pressroom and stereotyping department of The Star when it was published on East Center street. Between 1927 and 1937 he worked alternately as pressroom and stereotype foreman for the Marion and Steubenville papers, resigning here in 1937 to become production manager and director of research for the Pictorial Advertising Corp. and the Lightning Typographical Craftsmen, Inc., in New York City, from there going to Indianapolis to take over his present position.

His achievements have gained him national recognition in the newspaper mechanical production field. He has served as a member of the mechanical committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, a member of the ANPA board of research, and vice president of the Great Lakes Conference, and is now a member of the Conference board of directors. Early in October he was a speaker at the New England Newspaper Mechanical Conference in Boston.

He and Mrs. Yeager live at 2715 East Riverside Drive, Indianapolis.

YOUR HEALTH

"Fallen Kidney"

A rather common disorder is one known as nephroptosis, or "fallen kidney," in which the kidney is out of its normal position. This disorder most often affects the right kidney because it is lower in the body than the left and is more exposed to injury.

Then, too, slight bending of the spine to the right side narrows the space in which the kidney lies. The large bowel on the right side also may drop out of position and put some "drag" on the right kidney. In addition, it is thought that, possibly, pressure from the liver, which is on the right side, may affect the position of the right kidney.

The symptoms associated with a movable kidney vary to a great extent. There may be a dragging pain in the right side which is relieved by lying down and made worse by fatigue. Frequent emptying of the bladder may occur during the day. The dropping of the kidney may also pull on the stomach and first part of the small intestine. This may cause indigestion and even vomiting. Furthermore, this pull on the first part of the small intestines may cause "twisting or bending of the bile duct and symptoms then occur which may be like those of gallbladder disease. The movable kidney sometimes gives rise to sudden attacks of pain together with vomiting. This type of condition has been called "Dietl's crisis."

As a rule, when the kidney is out of position, it can be felt through the back and the pain which occurs passes downward to the groin. The attacks usually pass off after a few hours rest in bed with the foot of the bed raised.

In treating fallen kidney, in most instances, the wearing of a belt with a pad over the kidney usually is sufficient to prevent attacks of pain and other symptoms. However, now and then the kidney may be movable to such a great extent that an operation is necessary.

Then, too, in some instances, particularly if the patient is thin, pressure by the belt causes continual aching as well as attacks of sickness to the stomach. In these cases, also, operation would seem to be required. This operation is not a difficult one to carry out and, as a rule, brings complete relief.

President Truman in his meat decontrol broadcast said long and serious consideration had been given to having the New Deal Government go out onto the farms and ranges and seize the cattle for slaughter to cure the meat famine.

No Government of a free people has ever even thought of doing such a thing. Only a Communistic and tyrannically minded Government resorts to such a procedure or even thinks of doing so.

The Communistic Government of Russia seized the livestock from the Peasant farmers which made its totaliterian regime of slavery complete, starved millions of people and permanently reduced the Russian standard of living below what it had been under the tyranny of the Czars.

OHIO HOSPITALS SET TO EXPAND

May Double Number of Beds by Using Recent Federal Grant.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31—By utilizing Ohio's $13,490,000 share of a recent federal appropriation for hospital construction, the state health department hopes to double the number of beds—now estimated at 50,000.

As the initial step in the program, the health department's legal adviser, James E Bauman, was named by the state hospital advisory council yesterday to draft a bill by which the legislature would authorize the department to survey hospital facilities and receive the federal funds

The legislature appropriated $15,665 for a survey of hospitals at the last special session, but an additional $6,000 will be needed from the state. The federal government will match the survey appropriation with an amount equal to half of the state's contribution.

Dr. E V. Turner of Columbus, who will supervise the survey, told the council it would begin early in December and that field visits to hospitals would be completed by April 1. Compilation of data is expected to require most of the remainder of 1946, Turner said.

Applications by private or government agencies for a part of the federal funds allotted to the state will be considered strictly in light of findings made in Dr. Turner's report, Dr. Roger Heering, state health director said.

The state has until July, 1948, to qualify for the federal funds which are payable over five years at $2,698,000 annually. Applicants must put up $2 for each $1 of federal money received.

Under U S. public health service standards, 92 000 hospital beds are neeedd in Ohio. Those standards call for 4½ general, five mental and two chronic disease hospital beds for each 1,000 population In addition, Ohio needs about 6,750 beds for tuberculosis patients on the basis of 2½ beds for each annual death rate from that disease.

The state health department estimated that there are now available in the state 50,000 hospital beds of all types.

Halloween Pranksters Destroy Road Signs

Several Marion county road signs have been torn down by Halloween pranksters in the Marion county area, according to a report today from the county engineer's office.

One sign near LaRue was torn out of the ground and thrown into the Scioto river yesterday, the county engineer reported.

The sheriff's office said today it has had no reports of major destruction and that Halloween escapades so far have been limited to minor pranks.

SHOE INDUSTRY FREED OF CONTROL TODAY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—Decontrol of the nation's $2,000,000,000-a-year shoe industry, as well as removal of ceilings on all leather, went into effect today and OPA officials said retail shoe prices might soar 20 to 30 per cent above present levels before they begin to turn downward.

A clash between OPA and Reconversion Director John R Steelman was seen in the fact that the decontrol order—as emphasized by the OPA came on White House Orders from Steelman.

The OPA itself had flatly declared two weeks ago, when President Truman freed meats and livestock, that the lid would remain on shoes and leather.

In forecasting a price rise, the OPA noted that production is expected to lag 50 000,000 behind the estimated 550,000,000 pairs needed in 1947.

The end of all price tags on shoes came exactly one year to the day after wartime rationing of shoes was lifted

OPA meanwhile let it be known that its master decontrol plan originally scheduled to be made public tomorrow will not be released until next week, presumably after the election.

POTATO ACREAGE REDUCED

TWO LIMA HOSPITAL FUGITIVES CAPTURED

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 31—A coincidence in timing today enabled Toledo police to send two Cleveland men back to the Lima state hospital for criminal insane where they escaped Monday.

The men, identified as Jeffrey Thrasher, 30, and Harry Zabrusky, 31, were picked up early today by a New York Central patrolman in a shanty on railroad property here and booked on a charge of failing to possess draft registration cards.

As they were undergoing routine fingerprints, a package arrived from Lima bearing photographs and prints of three men who fled the hospital in a daring break today. The contents were taken from the envelope and spread on a desk for filing

Sergt William Wiener had just finished fingerprinting the two men when he glanced at the desk and saw one of the pictures to be that of Zabrusky. A quick comparison was made of the two sets of fingerprints, and the identification was completed

The pair admitted escaping the hospital with Truman Rogers, 32, of Mahoning county, but said they did not know the third man's whereabouts.

Dr R. E Bushong, hospital superintendent, who classed the men as "dangerous," said Rogers was the leader in the break which appeared planned in advance All three were inmates of a "strong ward."

OSU Football To Gross $1,000,000 This Year

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31—Ohio State university's football activities will gross more than $1,000,000 this year for the first time in the school's history, officials estimated conservatively today.

The net from the five home games will reach $280,000 also a record, it was predicted

E. E. Bernard, auditor of the ticket sale department, ventured that income from all sources—ticket sales, concessions, broadcasting, etc.—would gross $1,150,000. Gross from ticket sales alone may run to $1,000,000, he indicated, after the Pittsburgh and Michigan games are added in to present figures.

Last year's net was $202,671 and the gross from ticket sales $766,220. These figures were the highest since the lush days of 1926 and 1927. The net goes to the university athletic fund, with 85 per cent of it returning to the support of football, the remainder keeping other sports in the black.

4 DIE IN FIRE CAUSED BY HOME-MADE BOMB

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31 — Four seamen were burned to death in a fire which swept a waterfront rooming house early today and battalion chief Thomas Heagerty of the fire department said a home-made incendiary bomb apparently was tossed into the living room.

Police said the owner had received a warning a week ago.

Four others were hospitalized with third degree burns and one other was injured when he and another man jumped from a second floor window.

Chief Heagerty said a one-gallon can which apparently had contained gasoline was found in the living room debris.

Patrolman Bernard E. Thomas said he was standing at a nearby intersection when he heard the large plate glass window in front of the building crash.

At the same time, Thomas said, he saw a man walking away from the building. He got into a car, which sped away.

Jesse Rodriguez, owner of the house, told police he had been acting as an agent for a Central-American steamship line. Police quoted him as saying an 18-inch monkey wrench with a note attached was hurled through the same window a week ago The note, as released at a district police station, said

"Stop rooming finks in your house. This is your final warning."

At Johns Hopkins hospital the four dead were identified as Manuel Balbero, Marco Tilio Espinoza, Ramon Romero and Paul Santanas Espinoza was identified as a Honduran and the other two men as Cubans

Coal Parley Set Against Backdrop Of More Threats

By The Associated Press

New threats of work stoppages appeared on the nation's industrial front today as government officials mapped plans to meet with John L. Lewis tomorrow, hopeful of averting a strike by 400,000 soft coal miners.

In Chicago there was a threat of a shutdown of operations at the big stock yards, making idle some 25,000 workers, while in Detroit officials of Ford Local 600 of the CIO United Auto Workers said they soon would file with the national labor relations board a 30-day strike notice against the Ford Motor Company covering 70,000 workers at the company's Rouge plant

After a new outbreak of fighting between pickets and police at the strike-bound Allis Chalmers manufacturing company plant in West Allis, Wis., Mayor Arnold Klentz appealed to Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach to have the company and CIO-United Auto Workers resume negotiations in an effort to settle the six months old dispute.

In the 11-day old strike by 1,400 AFL pilots against the Trans-World Airline in a wage dispute, federal mediator Frank P. Douglass expressed hopes of bringing the disputants together.

Two strikes scheduled to start today were delayed. In New York the threatened walkout by 7,000 Western Union Telegraph Co. employes was averted a few hours before the 12 01 a. m. deadline today, by an agreement to extend the present contract to April 1, 1947, and for employes to receive wage hikes.

In Philadelphia, a work stoppage by members of the CIO American Newspaper Guild units at the Philadelphia Record and the Camden, N. J., Courier-Post, scheduled to start at noon today, was postponed for one week.

The Maritime strike, already settled on the Gulf and Atlantic coasts, appeared scheduled for long duration on the west coast.

A strike by an Independent Union of Aircraft Workers closed the plant of the Eclipse-Pioneer division of Bendix Aviation Corporation at Teterboro, N. J. Spokesmen for a CIO union seeking recognition as collective bargaining agent for the plant's 2,400 employes said the walkout was "against the CIO—not against the company.

BRITISH EMBASSY IN ROME BOMBED

By The Associated Press

ROME, Oct 31—A thundering bomb explosion which shook the city wrecked an entire wing of the British embassy early today and wounded an Italian passerby, perhaps mortally. Police and embassy officials confessed themselves without a clue as to the identity of the perpetrators.

A gaping hole reaching back for a depth of two rooms was torn into the building by the blast, resulting from two suitcases full of explosives detonated by clockwork. The heavy masonry of the block-long, three-story structure was cracked so deeply that police said part of it might have to be pulled down.

Embassy personnel escaped injury, but two Italian passersby were wounded. One of them, Nicolino Plitta, was said to have been hurt so badly that he may die. Four embassy guards were thrown from their beds but were not hurt.

J. G. Ward, the British charge d'affaires, said the blast, which occurred at 2:43 a. m. (8:43 p. m. Wednesday, EST), sounded to him like "a 500-pounder" (bomb). Windows throughout the building, on Venti Settembro street in uptown Rome, and in buildings across the street were shattered. The apartment of Ambassador Sir Noel Charles, who is away on leave, was damaged heavily.

Italian investigators said they could not even think of a reason why anyone in Italy should want to bomb the British, for sustained criticism of British policies has been lacking in Italy since the war ended. Ward and Michael Stewart, British press attache, said they also were mystified by the bombing.

Poultry Consumption Reported on Increase

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31—Shortages of red meat during the past few years were reflected today in a report that the American people now were eating about 25 pounds of chicken a year apiece, seven pounds higher than the prewar per capita average

L. W. Rember of Chicago, assistant general manager of the poultry and egg national board, also told the Ohio Baby Chick association's 24th annual convention that per capita turkey consumption was up from a 1935-39 average of 2.6 pounds to 4.3 pounds

Egg consumption will run to 370 per person this year, against a pre-war average of 298, he added.

Ohio poultry and egg producers will receive $134 000 000 this year from sales of eggs, chickens, and turkeys to rank the state fifth in the nation, he estimated. He predicted the national income from poultry and eggs would total $2,750,000,000

Russian People Told U. S. Ha Soviet Disarmament Propos

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Oct. 31 — People throughout Russia were told today by all media of information that the United States delegation at the United Nations assembly had recognized the wisdom and constructiveness of the Soviet Union's proposals on general disarmament.

Although U S Delegate Warren R. Austin's speech has not yet been published, the press and radio had this to say.

"The head of the United States delegation, Senator Austin, stating that Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov's speech was 'wise and sharp,' recognized the presense of 'constructive proposals in it which may provide a basis for unanimous agreement on positive action for the benefit of peace and security.'"

The general impression of the Soviet people is that two events of the last two days—Prime Minister Stalin's assertions and Molotov's proposals—have captured the attention of the world and convinced people everywhere of Russia's great desire for peace and security and of her willingness to take such steps, and make such statements, as will achieve a firm peace.

Russians realize there may be stormy periods ahead in the United Nations but the general impression is that the United States and the Soviet Union may be moving into a new phase of understanding which will be of benefit to all

Russians have failed to understand many reports from abroad concerning American unrest and fear of war but they do understand now that things sound much better than they did For this, of course, they give full credit to Stalin and Molotov and to the readiness of the United States to try and understand the Soviet point of view

The Soviet press and radio joined today in asserting that certain delegates to the United Nations assembly — particularly those from Britain and Holland —had tried to discredit proposals advanced by Soviet representatives

"Proposals of the Soviet delegation," said a special Tass dispatch from New York, "have unquestionably made an enormous impression on the American public It was not a mere accident that certain circles at once undertook maneuvers trying to we this impression.

"As soon as the wild appl calmed down in the assen some delegates ran into the l and hurried to make statem to journalists which had the of discrediting proposals of Soviet delegation one way or other.

"In particular," said the dispatch, which was broad over the home radio, "statem of this kind were made by representatives to the press with tation: 'Molotov, why do yo ways ask me about Molotov me about something else once'

"Some participants of the sions, primarily Great Brit representative, Phillip Noel ker, tried with obvious ner ness to bar discussion of So proposals at the general sembly."

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Friendship—Three Thousand Miles Apart

Ever play chess? It's a great game! One of the strongest friendships I know of started with a game of chess—between Dud Hoskins, in our town, and a man named Dalton Barnes, in England.

They've never seen each other, never met. But for the past eight years they've been playing chess by mail together—Dad pushing over Dalton's latest letter, while he sends a chart of his next move to England.

Dad always thinks best with a mellow glass of beer beside his chessboard. And the Englishman writes him that he does the same. "You know, it's almost as if we shared a glass of beer together, too!" says Dad contentedly.

From where I sit, you can talk about diplomacy and foreign policy, but it's often those little things—like a game of chess or a glass of beer—that can make for tolerance and understanding . . . between people of all nations . . . between neighbors here at home!

Crippled Mother's "Rendezvous With Life" Ends in Death

By The Associated Press

JOPLIN, Mo., Oct. 30—Crippled Zoe Tucker Peterson's "rendezvous" with life" ended in death after she had achieved her life-long dream to give birth to a baby.

Before she died she smiled when she saw her baby, a four-and-a-one-half pound boy, normal though premature.

Mrs. Peterson's rendezvous with life and death came yesterday—on her 32nd birthday. For the last 12 years she had been bedfast with arthritis.

Some time ago she announced she was going to have a baby.

"All of my adult life I have had a rendezvous with death," Zoe said. "Now I have a rendezvous with life. My baby will live and will be loved. The doctors have told me I have a 50-50 chance. I am happy because never before have I had that much of a chance."

She was showered with gifts of baby blankets, tiny shoes and baby clothes. Widely-known for her cheerful disposition, she became afflicted with arthritis at 17. At 25 she was bedridden. Her husband is Earl Peterson, a laborer, who was a childhood friend.

Yesterday she was taken to the hospital and the child was born through a caesarean operation. Several hours later Zoe died.

The baby, doctors reported, has a good chance for survival.

BOY IN HOLLAND WRITES THANKS LETTER FOR COAT

Communication Received by Marion County Woman.

A "thank you" letter from a Holland boy for a coat given him recently through the Red Cross has been received by Mrs. R. M. Walker of route 7, Marion. At the time she made the coat for the Red Cross, Mrs. Walker pinned a note in the pocket asking the person receiving it to write to her.

The boy is Otto Thomas and lives in Amsterdam East with his father, who, he explains, is a government official, his mother, four brothers, and one sister. The oldest is his brother, 24, and the youngest his sister, 5. In the letter he says, "I am 17 years old and go to secondary school. I learn English, Dutch, French German, arithmetic, algebra, history, geography, bookkeeping, drawing, chemistry, form of government, and religion. We begin school in the morning at 8 till 12 45. Every afternoon and evening we have home work because our school is too little for 300 pupils."

In telling how he received the coat Otto said that "my mother fetched it from the Poor-law Board of our church. The American Red Cross gives the clothes to religious communities of our country." He told Mrs. Walker in the letter that his favorite hobby is to read about and look at birds, and that in school he had learned something about America as he knew where Ohio is situated.

In closing his letter, he requested that Mrs. Walker write to him in the future.

PILES
ARE NEVER "MILD"
DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formation without tendency to heal themselves; instead, they are likely, if neglected to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting, predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its rundown tired feeling and general nervous irritability.

Removal of piles is the only permanent relief — written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, does not require the use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.

Why not call and learn of this method? The examination is free.

Ohio Political Campaigning Concentrated Upon Cleveland

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 31—Campaigning in the top Ohio election contests—governor and U. S. senator—was concentrated today in Cleveland where about one-seventh of the state's voters will ballot next Tuesday.

The political caravan brought its road show here last night for a final stand with Gov. Lausche and Sen. James W. Huffman sharing rally platforms to plead the Democratic cause and Republican Thomas J. Herbert and John W. Bricker attacking the national and state administration of the Democratic party.

All were to continue their campaigning here with speeches today and tonight.

Bricker, candidate for U. S. senate, pegged an onslaught on the New Deal on a sugar scarcity which he claimed was "the worst in our history."

"Thousands of housewives have been unable to redeem sugar coupon 9 and 10 which became good in March and July because grocers are out of sugar," Bricker declared, so "the OPA decided to extend them."

Candy Factories Down

"Several refineries and some candy factories already are shut down. Soft drink manufacturers may be forced to close," he continued. "Bakeries are closing on account of the shortage.

"The whole sorry muddle is but another manifestation of bureaucratic planning and fuzzy thinking. * * * Today we remain the only great nation in the world where a serious sugar shortage exists. * * * This year our country has the lowest per capita distribution of sugar since 1905."

Bricker contended that "the bureaucrats in Washington reduced sugar production in the past two years" and "approved diversion of 1,730,000 tons of American-owned sugar for export."

Price regulations, he said, prevented movement of beet sugar to eastern states and "government planners refused to purchase Cuban sugar in adequate amounts at reasonable prices."

Sees Chance for Improvement

"If properly administered," Bricker asserted, "American sugar resources may yet be managed to improve the situation. Otherwise, the sugar scarcity will continue as a permanent deficiency in the American diet."

Bricker's opponent, Senator Huffman, answered the Republican nominee's assertion of Tuesday that the New Deal had disappointed World War II veterans by declaring that the Democratic party "has not been outdone by any in the history of the United States in fairness to veterans."

"It has had no 'black days' such as that at Potomac Park under the Hoover administration when, with tear gas and dragoons, veterans were attacked and put to shameful rout," said Huffman.

Supports Vet Legislation

He said he gladly supported measures to help veterans and added that "if returned to the senate I shall continue that policy."

In the gubernatorial battle, between a Republican native son and a former Democratic mayor of Cleveland, candidates' speeches stuck to state issues.

Republican nominee Herbert asked Governor Lausche to "explain why the additional benefits authorized by congress and the Ohio legislature in August" for old age pensioners "have been delayed until one week before election."

Herbert claimed that "during his 22 months in office the average payment to pensioners was $32 a month" while the governor accumulated a surplus of $2,000,000 in the pension fund and pensioners' cost of living mounted.

Herbert also maintained Lausche's administration failed to sponsor a program for care of tubercular patients.

Disputes Charge

In another part of the city Lausche at the same time was declaring that it was "a matter of great pride for the administration and for the citizens of Ohio" that his administration was "the first in many years to interest itself in tuberculosis."

He said victims of the disease had been neglected by Ohio for many years, but added that revenue now was available to remedy the condition. "The committee appointed by me to recommend a program for treatment of tuberculosis by the state has made an excellent report which will be the basis for recommendations to the legislature," Lausche said.

The governor said Ohio was in the best financial condition of its history and would be able to make "substantial progress" in the next two years in increasing aid to local governments, especially schools; raising state employes' pay to meet increased living costs, and financing carrying charges on a bonus for World War II veterans.

Within 20 years after its introduction, soybean production in the United States reached 200,000,000 bushels in 1945.

Cornstalks, wheat straw and sugar cane stalks are made into paper, corrugated fiber-board and building boards.

RANING RITES CHANGED

Funeral services for Fletcher D. Haning of Columbus, a former resident of Marion, will be conducted Friday at 10:30 a. m. in the Hansberger Memorial Methodist church on the corner of 13th and Cleveland avenues in Columbus with Rev. Herbert Frazer officiating. Burial will be in Union cemetery in Columbus. The service was originally scheduled to be held in the P. E. Rutherford Co. chapel. Mr. Haning died Tuesday morning in Doctors hospital in Columbus of heart trouble following an illness of two weeks. Before moving to Columbus several years ago, Mr. Haning was employed here at the Osgood Co. for over 25 years.

2 Former Cleveland Multi-Millionaires In Debt At Death

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 31—Two former Cleveland multi-millionaires, William E. Telling and Charles L. Bradley, were in debt when they died, probate court records showed today.

Telling, 68, was president of the S. M. A. Corp. and a founder of the Telling-Belle Vernon Co. The dairy magnate started his career driving a milk wagon for his father.

The Telling estate showed liabilities of $1,185,546, with assets of $16,270, Deputy Auditor Willis J. Zangerle said today. Common Pleas Judge Adrian G. Newcomb, once Telling's counsel and friend, estimated the Telling fortune at from $15,000,000 to $18,000,000 at one time.

Bradley, an early associate of the Van Sweringen brothers, was in charge of construction of Cleveland's Terminal Tower. He also supervised construction of the Union Bank of Commerce and was president of the Higbee Co., Cleveland department store, when he died.

Alva Bradley, former president of the Cleveland Indians and brother of Charles Bradley, testified at a tax hearing that his brother was worth "about $15,000,000" in 1929.

Deputy Zangerle said the Bradley estate liabilities totaled $1,078,084, while assets amounted to $998,024.

School Head Speaks Before Church Women

Luncheon was followed by a business meeting when the Women of St. Paul's Episcopal church met for an all-day session Tuesday at the parish house. The meeting included a talk by Supt. E. E. Holl on community needs. Plans were made to take up a sewing project for needy in the Philippines. Announcement was made of a party to be held Friday night by the young people of the church and also for a potluck supper to precede the "every person canvass" Tuesday night. Guests were Miss Carrie Lindsay, Mrs. George Rasch and Mrs. Clarence W. Dutton. A meeting of the executive board held in the rector's study at 10:30 a. m. was followed by corporate communion.

"Parents' Night" Held By Boy Scout Troop

Boy Scout Troop No. 32 of the First Church of the Brethren held a "parents' night" meeting Tuesday evening at the church, with Owen Meddles, Scoutmaster, in charge. Approximately 50 parents were present. A new troop flag was presented to the troop, and eight tenderfoot badges were awarded by Joseph Schlosser, Scout field executive. Achievement badges were also presented to a group of 21 Scouts by the troop committee.

John Lodwig, visiting commissioner of the Boy Scouts, was present and gave a short talk. The Scouts of the troop presented a radio skit of a boxing match, and refreshments were served by the troop.

Ohio Girl, 17, Held For Killing Husband, 19

By The Associated Press

STEUBENVILLE, O., Oct. 31—A 17-year-old girl who police said ran into headquarters sobbing "I just shot my husband!" was held for investigation today following the death of her 19-year-old mate.

Police Sgt. Walter Durbin identified the girl as Mrs. Phyllis Savage and said she had signed a statement admitting the shooting.

Her husband, Homer Savage, a Navy veteran, died in a hospital early this morning, some six hours after the shooting last night in the bedroom of their home. He was shot twice in the abdomen.

Sgt. Durbin said the woman handed over a .22 calibre pistol on entering the police station and said the shooting followed a quarrel.

The pistol was a souvenir Savage brought home when he left service, the sergeant said.

Mrs. Savage was placed in charge of juvenile authorities.

HEART SECRETS REVEALED BY RADIOACTIVE MEDICINE

Doctor Says Injections Act as "Tracers" in Blood Count.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 31—Radioactive sodium phosphate, injected into a heart patient's blood, will tell some of the heart's secrets, a Swedish psychologist maintains.

Dr. Gustav Nylin of Stockholm described the technique last night to medical students at Western Reserve university. Medical research has shown that several radioactive substances may be used as "tracer" elements in studying human organisms, and Dr. Nylin is a pioneer in their use in problems of blood circulation.

"The red corpuscles absorb the radioactive substance and can be counted on the Geiger counter, just as a taxi meter clicks off the miles," said Dr. Nylin.

This technique permits a physician to measure the velocity of the blood flow, and to determine whether the heart is failing to empty itself completely on each contraction.

Dr. Nylin is in the United States to compare his experimental results with those of American experts, and to study at the Mayo clinic.

ROUND-WORLD B-29 FLIGHT CALLED OFF

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—The state department and yesterday the army has indefinitely shelved its plan for a round-the-world flight of B-29 Superfortresses.

Lincoln White, state department press officer, told reporters the department received a "preliminary letter on the subject a few days ago.

After sending the letter, however, White said, the war department followed up with a request that no action whatever be taken on it "pending further study by war department planners on detailed arrangements in connection with the flight."

Reporters, mindful of the possible international implications of sending a fleet of powerful atom bomb carriers around the globe, asked if the state department had requested the "no action" interpretation. White replied no.

Army Air Forces officers have been saying for weeks they were ready to launch the flight "in a matter of days" the state department approved

U. S. JUDGE CONVICTS MEAT PACKING HOUSE

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31—U.S. District Judge Guy K. Bard today convicted Armour and Co., meat packers, on 17 counts charging it forced butchers to buy other products in order to obtain meat and other. Sentence was deferred until Nov. 2, pending hearing on a motion for new trial offered by Charles A. Kenworthey, former Pennsylvania superior court judge and attorney for the company.

The court earlier this week dismissed 23 counts on a motion by Assistant U. S. Attorney Joseph E. Gold and today acquitted the company on six others. The maximum penalty would be a fine of $5,000 on each count.

Gold said he thought the verdict was fair and would act as a deterrent against further use "of this vicious and aggravated practice." He also declared the company faces possibility of losing $480,000 in government subsidies.

BAR ASSOCIATION TREASURER QUITS

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 31—The Cincinnati Bar association was without a treasurer today as aftermath of voted rejection of a Negro attorney's application for membership.

The treasurer, Paul W. Steer, a prominent attorney, resigned the post in a letter to association president Walter Schmitt, declaring the action "in refusing to admit William A. McClain to membership because he is a Negro is indefensible."

McClain's application for membership was co-sponsored by City Solicitor John D. Ellis and Ed F. Alexander, another assistant in the municipal law office.

Members of the association voted by ballot on 29 applications, including three women, at a meeting last night, and accepted all but McClain. An association spokesman said 80 per cent favorable vote was necessary for acceptance.

Steer said in the letter:

"The bar association is not solely a social organization. Its chief aims and objects are to maintain the honor and dignity of the profession, to aid administration of justice and to promote legal reform. All lawyers of acceptable character, regardless of color, are entitled to participate and can be helpful in these activities. * * *

"We should be the leaders in erasing distinctions of color and religion as a criterion of professional ability. * * * *"

ILLEGAL ENTRY

By International News Service

NEW ORLEANS—Illegal entry into the United States by Puerto Ricans is creating quite a problem for immigration officials at New Orleans. Officials pointed out that in one month, eleven stowaways were caught trying to leave ships docking at New Orleans, and in the past year and a half, approximately 150 Puerto Ricans have found their way into this country via the stowaway route. Once in the United States the Puerto Ricans—technically citizens of the United States, cannot be sent back against their will.

FAMOUS FORT

By International News Service

SAN FRANCISCO — Modern warfare has ended for all time the strategic value of a famous fort whose guns guarded the entrance into San Francisco Bay. The historic post is Fort McDowell, located on the 676-acre Angel Island, which was given its name in 1775 by the Spaniard Conquistadores. The fort, together with Angel Island, has been abandoned as a military post and is now the property of U. S. Army engineers who plan to use it for non-military purposes.

ST. MARY CERTAIN TO WIN SATURDAY FOOTBALL GAME

Local Irish or Shamrocks Of Columbus Is Question, However

By GEORGE ROEST

St. Mary is going to win the grid match at Harding stadium Saturday night. Whether it will be Marion or Columbus St. Mary can not be accurately forecast, however.

The Columbus parochials have a record of five wins and a loss, that coming in their last contest. After downing such class A teams as Bexley and Columbus South, the Columbus St. Mary team dropped one 13 to 12 to Columbus St. Charles in what has always been a traditional contest. The interesting feature of this loss is that Bexley which was beaten 13 to 6 by St. Mary had in a previous game beaten St. Charles badly and so St. Mary must have been figuring on an easy victory.

Seek Comeback Trail

This week the Columbus team will be out to bounce back into the win column and they will provide Marion St. Mary with some of the toughest competition of the season. Although light and inexperienced, the Columbus team has surprised everyone connected with it by its outstanding record. The average of the line is about 160 pounds and the backs average 155. There are only three average men on the squad. They are Federer the center, Jim Herold, quarterback, and Kurelic fullback.

Their left tackle Don Fitzmartin is probably the outstanding lineman and in the back field any of the players is likely to star. The club is prepped by John Wirtz.

Marion's Greenmen will be facing a top flight club in this game and one which still feels the sting of being upset. The Marion team's spirit was boosted by last week's fog tie with Lima St. Rose and this week they will be able to throw their full strength at the invaders.

After opening up with a tie and two straight wins the team, hampered by injuries, lost three in a row before holding the favored St. Rose squad to a draw. Once again they will find themselves on the short end of the odds but there are prospects that they will make things rough for the Columbus Irish.

Grade Practice Field

Coach Fetler's gridders spent their Monday night practice session helping to grade the new St. Mary practice field and Tuesday night held a work out and skull session. Last night they had their scrimmage session and tonight will hold a dress rehearsal. This dress rehearsal is more or less a pre-game warm-up in which they don game uniforms and run through plays and formations they plan to throw at Columbus St. Mary.

The team will be supported vocally from the stands by the newly-organized St. Mary booster club which plans to sit as a body at the contest. They will be led in cheering by H. R. VanOss. The usual Rah Rah St. Mary cheers however will not only inspire the Marion team but may also instill fight in Columbus as well. Suggested yell for the contest is Yea Marion St. Mary and We Don't Mean Columbus.

Football Team Does Things by Halves

RUTLAND, Vt. — Sometimes you can get places by doing things by halves or even by quarters. The Mount St. Joseph academy football team of this city did.

The academy took on two foes, West Rutland and Fair Haven High schools the same afternoon, playing 'em alternate periods.

After two chapters, it was MSJ 27, West Rutland and Fair Haven nothing. The academy blanked West Rutland, 14-0, the first period, shut out Fair Haven, 13-0, in the second. In the second half MSJ Coach Barry Branon played his subs, using 33 men. Though not scoring themselves, the reserves completed the shutout. MSJ piled up 13 first downs to two for WR, one for FH for the game and gained 257 yards passing and running against 64 for the combined opposition in the three-cornered scrap.

BILL VEECK MAY LOSE INFECTED RIGHT FOOT

Tribe Prexy Says Amputation Is Likely.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 31—President Bill Veeck of the Cleveland Indians disclosed yesterday that he may have to submit to amputation of his infected right foot.

"There's a possibility—a good possibility—that I'll lose the foot before I leave this hospital," Veeck said.

The Tribe president has been in Cleveland Clinic hospital since last Thursday for treatment of the infection, which has flared periodically since the foot was smashed by an anti-aircraft gun more than two years ago on Bougainville. He was a member of the United States Marine Corps.

"Right now," Veeck said, "the doctors are trying to get all the infection confined to the foot. I'm so full of penicillin that if you were to wring me out, you'd have enough for a dispensary."

After the accident on Bougainville, Veeck spent 14 months in a Marine hospital. He left on crutches, with his right foot in a cast.

He has undergone 10 operations trying to save the foot. Three times since he bought the Indians last June he has been hospitalized for treatment of the infection.

Players' Scandal Seen In Evangeline League

By The Associated Press

ABBEVILLE, La., Oct. 31—A players' scandal in the class D Evangeline baseball league became a possibility last night as the owner of one team disclosed that conspiracy charges to "throw" games have been placed before the National Association of Professional Leagues.

I. N. Goldberg, owner of the Abbeville Athletics, said here the charges have been lodged against players of his club and the Houma Indians, opponents in the league playoff. Houma won the series four games out of five.

Goldberg said the charges, made at a meeting of directors of the league in Baton Rouge last week, have been referred to Judge W. G. Bramham of Durham, N. C., president of the National association.

There was no comment last night from Judge Bramham's office.

Marion wrestling fans are in for a great evening of entertainment tonight at the Marion Armory for the girls are back again and these gals can really wrestle, using all the holds the boys use with a few new tricks thrown in. They will wrestle a ninety-minute match over the best two out of three fall route.

The other main go between Steve Nenoff and Monty LaDue should furnish the fans with plenty of fire-works, for the rough lumberjack from Canada is out to break up Steve's winning streak.

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 — When Giants intercepted five of Sid Luckman's passes Sunday, it was the first time in Sid's big league football career an opposing team had snatched more than three of his tosses...And to show how well the New York defense was working, ten different players caught Bear passes. When a team is clicking through the air, one or two men usually do most of the receiving...Word from Georgia is that C. Trippi and Co. may be knocked off by Alabama Saturday but only if they're overconfident...John Mahnken, the 6-8, 225-pound Georgetown basketballer who is supposed to head the Washington Capitols in the big pro league this winter, hasn't worked out for two weeks because he can't find basketball shoes to fit his size 14 feet.

Pardon My Accent

Jack McCrane of Teaneck, N. J. and Lou Viau of New Orleans, stars of the Kings Point football team, are pals but Jack apparently hasn't caught Lou's southern drawl...In last week's Fordham game, McCrane downed a Ram back with a vicious tackle...As he struggled to his feet, the Fordhamite remarked: "You all tackle pretty hard."..."You all?" Jack replied. "I'm the only guy who tackled you."...Well, that's the way drumbeater Bill McCullough tells it, but the best Fordham accents still come from the Pennsylvania coal mines.

One-Minute Sports Page

Honey Russell, coach of the Boston Basketball Celtics, is called "professor" by his players because he has a B. S. degree from Seton Hall and a Master's degree from N.Y.U.—and probably a third degree from the original Celtics...Bee Bee Wright, former high ranking welterweight, is making Harrisburg, Pa., his headquarters since he left the Army and is due to fight Henry Jordan there tonight. Wright had to send clear to Baltimore for a fresh supply of sparring partners after stiffening five while training for this tilt.

3-WAY TIE EXISTS IN HOCKEY LOOP

By The Associated Press

A three way tie exists today for first place in the American Hockey league's Western division among Indianapolis, Cleveland and Pittsburgh.

Cleveland and Pittsburgh moved into a deadlock with Indianapolis last night by defeating Buffalo and Philadelphia respectively while the Caps were idle. All three teams now have nine points apiece.

The Hornets trounced Philadelphia, 10-4 and established a league record when they powdered eight goals into the Rocket goal in the second period. The previous mark of seven goals in one frame was held by six clubs.

It was Philadelphia's seventh setback as against a single win.

The Barons blanked Buffalo, circuit champions, 2-0. Following a scoreless first period, Johnny Holota tallied early in the second while the Bisons were a man short due to a penalty. Hank Goldup clinched the decision for the Barons late in the third round by banging in a pass from Fred Thurier. Johnny Bower, Cleveland netminder, played a brilliant game, making 38 stops to Buffalo Connie Dion's 23.

In the only other game, the Springfield Indians hung up their third straight win by nosing out the Hershey Bears, eastern division pace-setters, 3-2.

YMCA Forms 3-Loop Independent Cage Program To Begin Activities December 2

Three basketball leagues will be formed this winter to play on the YMCA gym floor, Y officials said today. There will be 18 teams in the leagues and there is still one opening.

Each league will consist of six teams and there will be an AA league, an A league, and a B league. The double A will be formed to include the six teams that at the start of the season appear to be the strongest. The other leagues will be formed on the same basis in order to make all teams as evenly matched as possible.

The games will be played on Monday, Thursday and Friday nights and the season will get underway Monday Dec. 2. During November all the teams will play in pre-season contests if possible and from these showings the six strongest, next strongest, and weakest will be picked by judges who as yet are unannounced. The first three pre-season games will be played Monday night.

Governed by Commission

The league will be governed by a commission consisting of a representative of each club. This commission will have charge of special rulings for the leagues, getting officials, and the general running of the league.

The league will run for ten weeks and there will be two rounds in each league. After the first round percentages will be thrown out and the second round will start the same as the first. Should a team win the second round of play although not winning the first there will be a play-off between the first and second round winners.

At the end of the season there will also be a double elimination between all 18 of the teams in the league. All players this season are required to be members of the YMCA and the deadline for memberships is Nov. 11.

Tickets On Sale

Season tickets which will be good for ten games in any of the leagues are now on sale at the Y and may be purchased for $3. Admission at the door will be 35 cents a night. Children's prices will be 10 cents.

The following teams are already entered: Martel Elevator, Carroll's Jewelry, Guy's Hardware, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Sally Ann Inn, McMillen Feeds, Kirkpatrick Independents, Smith's Clothing, Universal Cooler, Claridon Ex-High, Houpt Memorial, Fairfield Engineering, Caledonia K. of P., Green Camp K. of P., Marion Challengers, a colored club, American Legion Post 584, and the Morral Supply Company. There is room for one more team. Anyone interested should contact Bob Minard at the Y.

The girls basketball league has only three entries so far those being: Smitty's Girls, Universal Cooler Girls, and the Y Girls. Three more teams are needed to complete this league. Teams interested should get in touch with Minard.

10TH BOXING DEATH OF YEAR RECORDED

By The Associated Press

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 31—Boxing today recorded its 10th ring fatality of the year with the death of Robert (Bobby) Burton, 24 year old Pittsburgh Negro, father of two children who, a friend said, was seeking a little extra money while on a two week leave from his ship-yard job.

Burton, a welterweight who had been fighting professionally for two years, was felled in the fifth round of a six round preliminary last night at the Arcadia by a right to the body delivered by a local fighter of the same name.

He had been felled for a count of nine in the second round for the only other knockdown of the bout.

After being questioned by police, the Providence Burton was arraigned before District Judge Murice Robinson in a special court session convened at police headquarters.

He pleaded innocent to a charge of manslaughter and was released in $2,000 bail for a hearing in Sixth district court Nov. 12.

Injuries Loom As Chief Topic Of Talk In Big Nine Bivouacs

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 — Notes from the Big Nine football camps:

Ohio State — Three Buckeye backs were sidelined by injuries as the squad went through its last to last practice before Saturday's game with Northwestern at Evanston .... Bob McGinnis was hobbling around on a sprained ankle; Bob Jarbusch started practice but retired with a bad knee and Wib Schneider had a bruised side .... Coach Paul Brown's starting guards, Hal Bevan and Bob Gaudio, are in good condition and he has one letterman reserve in Ray Dipierro.

Northwestern — Ed (Buckets) Hirsch, a guard who formerly played fullback on the 1942 Wildcat team, will captain the squad in the Homecoming game with Ohio State .... He was captain-elect of the 1943 team, but he left school to join the service before the season opened.... Yesterday's practice was devoted to study of the Buckeye's attack as the varsity scrimmaged against a reserve squad using Ohio State plays.

Minnesota — Coach Bernie Bierman continued to shift his lineup .... He moved Bud Grant into the left end post and Larry Helenkamp to right end as the Gophers held an overtime session in the field house in preparation for Michgan .... At center, the third player in as many days was holding forth. He was Steve Siliagoff, replacing Clayton Tonnemaker, who had taken over for Warren Beson on Monday.

Michigan — Bob Wiese, Wolverine fullback, headed a 36-man squad which Michigan will take to Minneapolis for the Little Brown Jug battle with the Gophers. He sat out most of the last half of the Illinois game with an injured side .... The squad went through a rough workout yesterday and a light drill was slated for today before the Wolves started their first journey of the season.

Wisconsin—Coach Harry Stuhldreher named a 35-man traveling squad for Saturday's encounter with Purdue. The varsity went through a long session on pass defense and offense and dummy scrimmage .... Stuhldreher said "We are in tough shape — at our worst this season — while Purdue, for the first time this year, will be at its best. It will be a rugged all-out contest."

Purdue — The Boilermakers drilled on providing protection for punters John Galvin, quarterback, did most of the kicking.... Coach Cecil Isbell stuck to the same forward wall lineup that bore the bulk of the work in the last two games.

Iowa—Hawkeye workouts were divided between offensive and defensive drills. Coach Dr. Eddie Anderson indicated that wholesale lineup changes might be made for the Hawks' Homecoming game with Illinois .... One possible change might see Ron Headington substituting at fullback for Dick Hoerner. The latter holds the Iowa rushing lead and had been named game captain.

Illinois — Practice alignments indicated that Frank Bauman, Stanley Green and Lou Agase will work at left tackle against the Hawkeyes. Mike Kasap, regular left tackle, will not play because of a broken finger.... The Illini held its second straight scrimmage session yesterday, punctured with downfield blocking as the halfbacks scampered for long gains against the reserves.

Indiana — Left Guard Frank Ciolli, who injured his knee in the Iowa game, took part in blocking practice as the Hoosiers tuned up for Saturday's invasion of Pittsburgh .... Charles Armstrong, who has missed only two of ten conversion points this season, was moved into the No. 2 left tackle post behind John Goldsberry.

OSU Worries About Shortage Of Guards

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31 — A shortage of reserve guards bothered Coach Paul Bixler today as he prepared to polish Ohio State's offense in a final workout here before the gridders leave for Saturday's game at Northwestern.

Hal Deal of Wooster and Bob Gaudio of Cleveland, first string guards, are ready to go, but three of their four understudies are hampered by injuries.

Back of Gaudio at left guard, Bob Jabbusho of Elyria is nursing a knee injury that forced him out of yesterday's practice and Bob McGinnis is limping with an ankle sprain from the Minnesota game.

Wilbur Schneider of Gahanna, a sub for Dean at right guard, has been suffering from rib bruises.

That leaves Ray Dipierro of Toledo the only able-bodied guard in the second and third teams. Luckily Dipierro, a third string guard, started the season as left guard on the second team and can play in either guard position.

After a short practice, mainly on offense, late today, Bixler will select 36 gridders who will leave tonight for Chicago.

PROSPECT GROUP TO MEET

Saturday, the Junior Mission band of St. Paul Lutheran church at Prospect will meet. Reformation festival services will be observed Sunday morning, with Holy communion, a special sermon by Rev. Paul E. Dobbestein, pastor, and a special offering taken to be designated for home missions. Mrs. Franklin Gerfen will be hostess for a meeting of the Katherine Luther Guild next Wednesday at 8 p. m., with Mrs. Roy Grates assisting. The topic, "Japanese Americans," will be presented by Mrs. Paul D. Smith, and devotions will be by Mrs. Robert Isler. Plans are being made for ingathering of thankoffering boxes the following Sunday, together with showing of movie films.

NOTRE DAME'S star quarterback, Johnny Lujack, of Connellsville, Pa., laces his shoulder pads at South Bend, Ind., just before going out to practice in readiness for the Fighting Irish invasion of Baltimore, Md., for the annual Navy game.

4 Red Sox Players Retired from Game

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Oct. 31—The end of the active baseball trail came today for four popular members of the American league champion Red Sox.

All will be retained, however, in the Sox organization.

Right handed pitcher Charlie (Broadway) Wagner, who never regained his form after his health broke while serving in the Philippines, will move into the front office to assist George (Specs) Toporcer, director of the Boston farm system.

Veteran relief pitchers Mike Ryba and Mace Brown and utility infielder, Coach Tommy Carey, will be assigned posts in the system to help develop younger players.

Traveling Travis Tidwell Busiest Man in Football

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 — Bobby Layne of Texas, Ben Raimondi of Indiana and Gene Roberts of Chattanooga sport the outstanding offensive records on the nation's gridirons but the busiest man with a football these days is travelin' Travis Tidwell, Auburn's quadruple-threat freshman.

Layne tops all the collegians in yardage gained both on the ground and in the air. Raimondi is the leading passer and Roberts has covered more yardage while running with the ball than any of the rest.

Tidwell, however, is the workhorse of them all. In Auburn's five games he has carried or total of 386 yards on 84 running total of 386 yards on 84 running plays and completing 44 of 87 passes for an aggregate of 483 yards.

His grand total of 869 yards makes him the runner-up to Layne in individual offense.

In addition to carrying or throwing the ball 40 times more than any other player, Tidwell has punted 17 times, run back 20 kicks and, apparently finding a spare moment in some game, caught one pass.

His achievements in his initial collegiate season, with an Auburn team that has won three of its five games, have landed him in fast company. Statistics announced today by the National Collegiate Athletic bureau show that Tidwell's companions among the first five individual offensive leaders to date are definite All-America candidates.

Layne retained his leadership in combined offense by boosting his total to 942 yards on 112 plays.

Third behind Layne and Tidwell for the second week is Herman Wedemeyer, All-America back from St. Mary's, with 736 yards, followed by All-America Glenn Davis of Army and Alabama's great Harry Gilmer with 718 yards each.

Raimondi held his lead among the passers with 46 completions in 92 attempts for a total of 563 yards.

Gilmer, in the runner-up spot, has tossed exactly 100 passes in six games, completing 45 of them for 535 yards.

Roberts, who carried the ball 22 times for 116 yards in Chattanooga's 33-13 loss to Miami of Florida, is the fifth man to top the list in the individual rushing department, which has had a different leader each week this season. He has carried the ball 88 times and gained 564 yards.

HARDING JAY VEES TRIP DELAWARE 24-6

Harding's Jay Vees, playing at Delaware yesterday afternoon, downed Delaware Willis 24 to 6 holding decided supremacy throughout the contest and scoring in every period.

Harding's first tally came after Smith booted the kickoff over the Delaware goal line putting the Delaware team at a disadvantake on their own 20. Delaware could get no gain so punted, Harding gaining the ball on the Willis 40. They drove to the 20 from where left half Bishop dashed to pay dirt.

Bishop established himself as the big gun of the Harding attack in scoring two of the touchdowns.

In the second quarter Delaware evened things up, Brondax scoring on a 35 yard dash.

Harding moved into the lead they were to retain throughout the remainder of the game soon afterwards when, after gaining the ball on a fumble, they sent right half Roest 20 yards for a touchdown.

Isaly scored in the third quarter climaxing a drive from midfield with a run of approximately 20 yards. Bishop once more made a Harding drive pay off in the final period. Gaining possession deep in their own territory, the Junior Prexies gained six straight first downs and Bishop went over from the 20.

"ROOKIE OF THE YEAR." Del Ennis of the Philadelphia Phillies cost his club just two street car tokens. Back in 1942 a scout invested that amount to see a high school pitcher. Outfielder Ennis smashed three home runs and a double and the scout lost interest in the pitcher. Ennis hit .313 for the Phillies this year, knocking out 17 circuit clouts. But if it hadn't been for the GI Bill of Rights, he wouldn't have played for the Phillies at all. They wanted to farm him out for further "seasoning." Cost of the two tokens was 15 cents—in the days of 51 a pound butter.

Warren Giles Signs Five-Year Contract As Reds' Top Pilot

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Oct. 31—Genial Warren C. Giles today filed away a new five-year contract as general manager of the Cincinnati Reds because club owners "wanted to make his future here so attractive he could not be lured away from Cincinnati."

That complimentary reason came from Powel Crosley Jr., president of the club, who reported last night the new contract had been substituted for a three-year agreement signed last year. Salary was not disclosed.

Crosley reported that Giles, Reds' general manager since he took over the reins from Larry MacPhail in November, 1936, "had been asked to consider other positions, one of them a very big executive post" but that Giles "was emphatic in his assurances that he preferred to stay in Cincinnati." Neither Crosley nor Giles would discuss the positions offered.

The club president said he was happy that Giles "chose to stay with the Reds because I know our baseball is in good hands with him as general manager of the club."

Giles, 50 and active in professional baseball since 1920, resigned as president of the league's Rochester, N. Y. club to come here as successor to MacPhail, now top man in the New York Yankees front office.

Giles found the Reds in a bad way; the team had finished in the second division 10 consecutive years, the club had a $250,000 deficit.

The last 10 years, under Giles' guidance, the team has won two pennants, a world championship and wound up in the second division only three seasons.

On the financial side, the debt has been liquidated and the club has money in the bank, despite expenditure of more than $500,000 to improve Crosley field and additional thousands of dollars for players.

No club official would hazard how much has been shelled out for players but one commented: "It's no secret we've spent a half-million in an unsuccessful search for a hard-hitting left fielder."

Programs on the Air

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 — Television in color has now cast off its mechanical gadgets to blossom forth into an all-electronic system. At least in the laboratory.

At Princeton, N. J., yesterday in the laboratories of RCA there was the first demonstration of this newly developed method. What's more, it projected images on a 15 by 20-inch screen.

Maybe not the best in the world, it was indicative of an important step in television development, which the engineers insist will require five years more to bring to the same status of the black and white telecasts of today.

So far only slides and movie film can be used, live talent and outdoor pickups depending upon further progress. The receiver has three three-inch image tubes, each for a primary color, their output being blended into a complete picture on the screen without flicker to provide continuous color. The present camera has a special scanning tube, three fixed color filters and as many photo-electric cells.

RAILS LEAD MARKET IN RECOVERY SPRINT

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK Oct. 31—Rails led a fast recovery sprint in today's stock market with leaders advancing 1 to 5 or more points.

Dealings tapered after an active opening and prices were chaded here and there. Urgent bidding then appeared by midday and orders piled up to such an extent that the high speed ticker tape again was behind actual floor transactions for a lengthy interval. Top marks were trimmed in most cases near the fourth hour with the pace slowing.

Extension of the rally which got under way at the tailend of yesterday's session was attributed partly to a bulge in cotton futures when trading in this staple was resumed today.

Conspicuous on the upside were Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Atlantic Coast Line, Pennsylvania Railroad, Great Northern, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Northwest Airlines Western Union "A," Anaconda, Kennecott, American Can, Du Pont, Johns-Manville, Westinghouse, International Silver (on a boosted disbursement), Texas Co. and Inland Steel (on an increased year-end payment).

Bonds stiffened with carriers popular. Grains were higher.

DEMOCRATS HIT REPUBLICANS

Hannegan Terms Party Leadership "Proven Champions of Chaos.'

By The Associated Press

Democrats centered their fire on the Republican congressional leadership today as the campaign for votes in next Tuesday's house and senate elections went into its waning days.

The Republicans insisted anew that they will win control of congress for the first time in 15 years.

Democratic Chairman Robert E. Hannegan set the tone for a string of party orators with the assertion last night that under Senator Taft (Ohio) and Rep. Martin (Mass) the Republican party contains "the proven champions of chaos."

Hannegan repudiated Communist support for the Democratic ticket, saying the administration neither wants nor deserves it. "You should give it to the Republican party," he said in a radio address. "Give them your vote; for they, not the Democrats, have earned it."

At Minneapolis, former Commerce Secretary Henry A. Wallace declared "the real power behind the 'get tough with Russia' policy is not Secretary of State Byrnes but Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) and the military."

Wallace told a Democratic-Farmer-Labor party rally the Republicans "have always oscillated between the two poles of isolationism and imperialism," adding.

"I refuse to think that Secretary Byrnes and the state department would have gone so far in risking war with Russia if they had not been needled into it by Vandenberg and the military."

Senator Claude Pepper (-Fla), another critic of administration policy toward the Soviet Union, said at Kansas City a Republican victory next Tuesday "would sabotage our efforts to build a peaceful world."

"Imagine," he asked an audience at a national citizens political action committee meeting, "a foreign policy being conducted by our President and secretary of state that must depend on the fiscal and political cooperation of a Republican house led by Joe Martin and his crew of wreckers."

At Philadelphia Senator Taft declared the Republicans already are sure of winning a "safe majority" in the house and furthermore will swing enough seats to wind up with a majority of 51 against 45 for the Democrats.

Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota and a candidate for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination, said at a party rally in Evansville, Ind., the GOP has at least a "fighting chance" to win the senate.

MILK PRICE

major Ohio cities are as high as or higher than the new Marion price, the milk dealer said. Current price is 20 cents in Dayton, 19½ cents in Springfield, 20 cents in Toledo, 20 cents in Cleveland, 20 cents in Cincinnati, 18 cents in Columbus, 20 cents in Mansfield, and 20 cents in Marietta.

Two Main Factors

Two main factors have caused farm milk prices to rise, the dairymen report. In the first place, this is the season of lowest milk production on the farms, and this regularly results in higher prices. Furthermore, the meat shortage has greatly increased the demand for cheese, and that added competition for milk is felt by dairy plants which purchase milk for bottling.

"As milk supply increases seasonally during the next few months," the dairyman said, "it is reasonable to assume that farm prices will be lower. And as our price to farmers drops, our consumers may be sure we shall pass on the benefits to them just as we have passed on the increases.

SNOWBOUND GROUPS NEARLY ALL RESCUED

By The Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 31 — All but four of 33 persons stranded in snowbound Utah mountains had been rescued today by searching parties using snowplows and bulldozers to break through waist-deep drifts to reach them.

Two deer hunters remained isolated in mountains near Ogden, Utah, and two others were stranded near Cedar City, in southern Utah, but both parties had shelter and were believed to be in no immediate danger. Efforts to reach them were continuing today.

A party of eight men, five women and three children in a logging party was rescued after being marooned in mountains near Provo after part of the group snow-shoed to a forest service telephone to summon aid. Eight hunters were rescued in wagons equipped with sleds.

Meanwhile clearing skies apparently signalled an end to the two-day storm which swept several intermountain states, causing damage to railroad lines in Nevada and scattered damage to utility poles and other property in Utah.

The first changes in the uniform of the U. S. Marines since 1937 appeared in 1944 when Leathernecks were issued new dress blues and winter greens.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

OUTSIDE my fathers door, I paused and pulled myself together, for my encounter with Carolyn had shaken me more than I liked to admit, even to myself.

When, at last, I knocked upon the door, "Mr K" opened it, and I could see my father, Katharine and Dr Twitchell gatnered around Sam Brixton on a hospital bed which had been set up in my father's living room

Voiced Muted

"A message?" he said, his voice muted

"Two of them," I said, and then my father was at his side

"What is it, Daughter?" he asked

"The five guards have been fed—adequately—and Harry has all arrangements made for their departure He wished me to ask you if you wanted to see them before they left, or to send them any message."

"I'll go to them at once," he said "Any other message?"

"One to Katharine about trays" I said, and my father raised his voice slightly

"Katharine, will you please come over here a minute?" he asked, and my kinswoman walked swiftly toward us

"Katie wants to know about trays, how many, what on them, and when," I said "You already have told me about Sam's, but if Lee Chow is also ill—" my voice trailed off Then I rallied

"I suppose Hugh and Jack will have the regular dinner," I said

"Which is when?" she asked.

"I imagine in about fifteen minutes," I said, "later if you wish But Katie can manage everything in that time"

Katharine turned to my father. "You wish Dr. Twitchell to see Lee Chow before either of them eat?" she asked.

"Yes, I do," he answered, "but not for the same reason You and Dr. Twitchell must see Lee Chow before he has any food—Harry says he is quite ill—and—I want haste in the inspection, so I cannot let Dr. Twitchell eat before he has gone down to the secret room. What about Sam? Is he in shape so Harry could take over while you and Dr. Twitchell are downstairs?"

A Good Trip

"Absolutely," she said "He's in surprisingly good shape after the journey—"

"Mostly owing, I imagine," he said dryly, "to the fact that his loving wife traveled in another car"

"Eminently correct," she said "And Harry can do everything necessary for him. All he really needs is somebody to ride herd on him, and Harry is a handy man with a lariat, I fancy."

"He is," my father said grimly. "And I'll go back with you now, Margaret, send the guards on their way, and bring Harry back here with me I shall want you also I trust you will not be inconvenienced"

"I am at your service, now, as always, Father," I told him demurely, but my pulses were thrilling with excitement as I walked beside him back to the other part of the house He had intimated that Harry would be left alone with Sam That must mean that he meant me to go down to the subterranean room with him, the room which held the tremendous secret shared by Hugh Grantland, Lee Chow, and Jack Bickett, and in which Sam Brixton played some part

He confirmed my guess as we neared the kitchen

"I shall want you to come down stairs with me," he said in muted tones "From what Harry tells me, Lee Chow is in bad shape. Katharine may need a nurse's aid."
